Home of Christian and Barbara Stutzman, drawn by Irvin Brunk of fam. 3789.1, as his contribution for the book

Explanations

The names of descendants of Barbara Hochstetler always appear first in the account of their families, whether men or women. If a woman marries another descendant of Barbara, her name follows her husband's. Heading the family does not make her a family head in the sense forbidden in Ephesians 5:23, but is simply an easy way to learn which of the marriage partners is descended from Barbara Hochstetler. When both marriage partners are descended from Barbara or Jacob Hochstetler, they are written as one family and for convenience are called a double family, and descent lines of each are printed over such families. All other families may be called single families. Any family is easily found in the first index beginning on page 1025 where the family heads are arranged in the order of the alphabet. Both names are listed for double families.

These families are also arranged alphabetically, under Post Offices. The Post Offices are arranged alphabetically, by countries and states. Names marked with a star (*), are of persons not living. This index begins on page 1164 and is very helpful to show how neighbors are related.

The third index begins on page 1327 and gives names of ancestors of marriage partners and names in the footnotes.

The families are numbered in order from 1 to 15550, with a few families received after the numbers were inserted and with a few numbers skipped by the numbering machine. The small index figure after the name of a family head shows its generation from Jacob Hochstetler. The number following the family head is the number of his or her parents. The numbers after the names of the children of a family is the family number of each of the children. Most of the families gave quite fully the information asked. Those with brief accounts failed to do so and saved something on the printer's bill. The usual abbreviations have been used and a list of them seems unnecessary. The names of the first five generations appear on top of right hand pages.

To find how two persons are related to each other write the names of the ancestors of each back to their common ancestor. The first names to the left of the common ancestor, are brothers or sisters, the next names to the left are the children of brothers and sisters, or first cousins. The children of first cousins are second cousins, the children of second cousins are third cousins and so on. The relationship between my grandfather and his Mary or Miriam Miller is given below:

Mary	Benedict	Anna	Barbara	Jacob
	Second	First	Sister	Hochstetler
	Cousins	Cousins	& Brother
	Adam	Daniel	John

This is what may be called single descent lines, all that is given in the book to save space. Those who find these single descent lines over their families may find their complete lines of descent by combining a number of double families, as follows showing the descent the family of their son Samuel Hochstedler:

Mary, Benedict, Anna, Barbara.
Samuel, Jacob.
Adam, Daniel, John.
Annie, Jacob, Peter, Mary, Barbara, Jacob.

Samuel, being a son of Adam Hochstedler, is evidently a third cousin to his mother, which is true of all her children. The family of their son, fam. 3681, Manasses S. Hochstedler shows even more descent lines.

Mary, Benedict, Anna, Barbara.
Samuel,
Adam, Daniel, John.
Manasses, Jacob.
Annie, Jacob, Peter, Mary, Barbara.
Moses, Peter, Mary, Barbara.
Savilla, Peter, Jacob.
Barbara, Elizabeth, Magdalena, Barbara.

Those who are interested will find in their son Sylvan even a larger number of descent lines.

THE STUTZMAN FAMILY

During the last twelve years spent largely in the preparation of this work I have failed to find one member of the Hochstetler or Stutzman family that knew they are in any way related. But I have found quite a number that insisted there is no relationship between them. It is well at this point to show that Barbara Hochstetler, whose descendants appear in this book, was a daughter of Jacob Hochstetler, the immigrant of Sept. 1, 1736.

In a deed signed Feb. 17, 1776, and recorded Aug. 14, 1776, in Book R., page 118, at Lancaster, Pa., she is named as Barbara Stutzman, widow, a daughter of Jacob Hochstetler, of Berks Co. Pa., Mar. 2, 1775, and joined with her brothers John, Joseph and Christian in the sale of her father's farm for four hundred English pounds or $2,000.00 to John Metzger, or Naffziger, of Lancaster County, Pa. As Barbara died about 1782, after which her name disappeared from the Bern Township tax lists, Berks Co., Pa., and her husband had died in 1770, it is not surprising that the relationship had been forgotten.

My grandfather, Adam Hochstetler of fam. 3537, according to his daughter Susanna Bittner, always insisted there was no kinship between himself and his wife Mary or Miriam Miller, not realizing that her father, Bishop Benedict Miller was his second cousin, as appears a little later. But he knew of the slight relationship between his wife and Joseph Stutzman in the neighborhood and his brother Dr. Christian Stutzman. He also knew that his grandfather had a sister Barbara, but did not know the name of her husband. This shows this relationship was known to the fourth generation, though not very clearly.

It is hoped the descendants of Barbara Hochstetler and Christian Stutzman, will be assured that their ancestor Jacob Hochstetler, was attacked by the Indians, Sept. 20, 21, 1757, his wife, son Jacob and a daughter, name unknown, were killed and the father and two sons Joseph and Christian taken up the Susquehanna River. The father escaped after three years and the sons were returned by the Indians after five and seven years.

His son John resided on a part of his father's farm, and Barbara lived near by, with her husband and three daughters, Magdalena, Anna and Mary. She and her family shared with her brother the bereavement in the loss of her father and mother, and a brother and sister in a single day. Naturally our heartfelt sympathy goes out to them.

JACOB HOCHSTETLER'S LAST FARM

The deed of his last farm and likely the place of his burial is recorded at Lancaster, Pa., Book R, page 118. The deed is made Feb. 17, 1776, by the heirs of Jacob Hochstetler and was recorded Aug. 14, 1776, as appears in the following extract: "This indenture between John Hochstetter, of Berks County, and Catherine, his wife; Joseph Hochstetter, of the same county, and Ann his wife; Barbara Stutzman, of said county, widow; and Christian Hochstetter, of Lancaster County and Barbara, his wife, and John Metzger, or Naffziger of Lancaster County. The Hon. Proprietors did grant by patent the 29th of April, 1767, to Peter Benedict, a tract of land in Lebanon Township, called "Stony Ridge," and whereas the said Peter Benedict and Maria Elizabeth, his wife, did convey, the 7th, 1772, to the said Christian Hochstetter, all the above described tract of 150 acres of land. And whereas, the said Christian Hochstetter, and Barbara his wife, by their certain deed, dated 2 March, 1775, did grant and convey to Jacob Hochstetter of Berks County, And whereas the said John Hochstetter lately died intestate, leaving his widow Anna and issue to wit: John Hochstetter, Joseph Hochstetter, Barbara Stutzman, and Christian Hochstetter, the above described tract of land, among other things, descended and came to the children and heirs of the said Jacob Hochstetter, deceased.

Now this indenture witnesseth that the said John Hochstetter and Catherine, his wife, Joseph Hochstetter, and Anna his wife Barbara Stutzman, and Christian Hochstetter, and Barbara his wife, for and in consideration of the sum of 400 pounds, money of Pennsylvania, well and truly paid by the said John Metzger, or Naffziger do grant and convey."

This deed shows that Jacob Hochstetler was of Berks County, March, 1775 but does not indicate whether he lived on the Lebanon Township farm which is now in Lebanon County. Barbara Stutsman, signed this deed with an X, as did also the wives of his brothers.

THE STUTZMANS

Our Stutzman family came from Spiez near Lake Thun, Switzerland, 7 degrees east of Greenwich and 46 N. longitude. The Brenneman history by Albert H. Gerberich, page vi, has a chart of the Aare Valley showing Spiez on Lake Thun, or Thuner See. This information about the early Stutzman home comes from William H. Welfly, late of Somerset, Pa. He grew up at Salisbury and was well acquainted with Jost Stutzman, 10642, who served in the Pa. Legislature in 1848-9, and his oldest son Joseph, 10643, who was the first County Superintendent of Schools.

From the landing records at Philadelphia, Pa., we learn that Johan Jacob Stutzman arrived Oct. 2, 1727, on ship Adventure, Capt. John Davies, from Rotterdam, last from Plymouth, England.

Dr. R. H. Stutzman, Tower City, Pa., has given considerable time to the study of his family and has assembled about 1000 families of his kindred and plans to print the results of his labors in the near future. Tower City is well over the Blue Ridge nearly due east of Shartlesville, Pa., the town nearest our ancestral home. The doctor's ancestors have lived in the same community, ever since Pine Grove Township was set off from Berks County with parts of other counties to form Schuylkill County. He writes that Johan Jacob Stutzman, according to the traditions handed down, from generation to generation in his family, on his voyage to America, lost his wife and all his children, except two sons Jacob and Christian. Not having money enough to pay his passage "he bound out his sons as indentured servants to pay therefor." He then returned to the Old Country. Possibly Capt. John Davies who under the circumstances would naturally take a deep and kindly interest in the stricken family may have helped in the discussion of plans and opened the way for collecting the debt due him and carry out the father's natural longing for his old home and friends, leaving his sons in the care of his fellow church members of the Amish faith. That his sons were under 16 years is shown by the fact their names were not reported, under the law that the Captain must report the names of all male passengers over 16 years. These sons later appear among the Amish in Bern Tp., Berks Co., Pa.

Christian Stutzman received warrant No. 32 Jan. 17, 1753 on which a survey for 193 acres, 37 perches of land was returned, recorded in Survey Book C, Volume 228, page 93, in land office, Harrisburg, Pa. He sold 100 acres of this land June 10, 1756 to John Yoder for 80 pounds lawful money, John to pay to the Proprietors all unpaid balances due them. Jacob Stutzman and George Wagoner are named as adjoining land owners. It is assumed that Christian and Jacob named above, were brothers, sons of Johan Jacob Stutzman, the immigrant of Oct. 2, 1727.

This is likely the Christian Stutzman who appears on the Pine Grove Township (organized in 1771), tax lists in 1774 and in 1779, 1781, 1782, the names Christian Stutzman, Sr., and Jr., appear each taxed on 100 acres of land. Christian Stutzman, Sr., removed in 1782 to Mahonoy Tp., Northumberland Co., Pa., where he took up 100 acres of land.

Christian Stutzman, Jr., married in 1788, Catherine Ekert "across the Blue Mountain" and remained in Berks Co., now Schuylkill Co., till his death prior to 1826.

This Christian Stutzman received a warrant Aug. 10, 1785, on which a survey for 110 acres and 37 perches was returned, recorded in Survey Book S, page 197. This land was patented to him in 1801 and recorded in Patent book P, Vol. 36, page 246. This land is now located in Hegins Tp., Schuylkill Co.

The same Christian Stutzman and Frederick Denger received a patent, May 27, 1822, each for an undivided half interest of 321 acres, 90 perches and allowance for roads, as appears in a deed Oct. 6, 1826, signed by Abram Schwartz and Susanna, his wife to Peter Stutzman. The deed recites that Christian Stutzman died intestate leaving a widow Catherine and issue, Susanna Schwartz and Peter Stutzman.

Jacob Stutzman

We assume that the father of our Christian Stutzman was Jacob, the older son of Johan Jacob, the immigrant of Oct. 2, 1727, as he was the first that asked for land. The Hertzler Gen., generally a good authority, in footnote on page 426 states that our Christian was a son of Johan Jacob, the immigrant. We assume he was a grandson of that man.

Jacob Stutzman received warrants Nos. 128 and 135, Oct. 2, 1742 (15 years after landing), for 100 acres each. Both these warrants became void because he did not comply with the conditions set forth therein. New warrants were issued for this same land June 3, 1763, to Michael Christman. Recorded in Survey Book A, Vol. 8, page 226.

Jacob Stutzman received warrant 73, August 8, 1754, on which a survey for 149 acres, 54 perches is returned. Recorded in Survey Book C, Vol. 193, page 250, land office at Harrisburg. Christian Stutzman, presumably his brother, is named as an adjoining land owner. Jacob Stutzman appears as a tax payer in Bern Tp., in 1753, 1754 and 1759, his last appearance in Bern Tp. tax lists. The lists for 1757 and 1758 are missing. The draft of the Christian Stutzman land is adjoined by land of late Jacob Stutzman now Jacob Schardell.

Christian Stutzman, with wife Barbara Hochstetler, received warrant 130, April 30, 1765, on which a survey of 25 acres, 36 perches was returned. Recorded in Book C, Vol. 232, page 235. After the Indian massacre he may have helped his brother-in-law, John Hochstetler, work some of the Jacob Hochstetler farm. In 1765 Jacob and his sons Joseph and Christian had returned from captivity and could use the extra land. So Christian secured the smaller tract adjoining John Hochstetler. The land was not patented to him.

Under the direction of his will, this land was viewed and appraised April 7, 1785, by Henry Stehley and Joseph Renno, of Bern Township, and Rudolph Detweyler and Christian Kiener of Tulpehocken Township, also Christian Yoder of Quiemohone Township, Bedford County, Pa. Price 650 pounds. Signed June 10, 1785, recorded June 13, 1785, Deed book 9, page 24. The appraisers state they have examined the will of the late Christian Stutzman and quote in full its third article. They add that at the request of all the heirs they met, made the appraisal and directed that the money was to be divided among the heirs according to the provisions of the will. They had a fine opportunity to name the heirs, but did not do so, nor are the receipts for the money by the heirs of record.

The land was sold May 14, 1787 for 80 pounds to Jacob Fike. When sold, the land of the late John Stutzman is named as adjoining. The taxes on the land were paid by Christian Stutzman to 1810 and thereafter by Jacob Feick.

—Will of Christian Stutzman—

Last Will and Testament of Christian Stutzman on file and of record in the Register's office, Berks Co., Pa. Probated Nov. 17, 1770.

In the name of the Holy Trinity, Amen.

"Whereas I, Christian Stutzman, have been very sickly for a long time past but praised be God in good understanding, but know not how long I shall yet live, so purpose to leave my Last Will and Testament as it shall be held with what I leave behind, and the same the date of the fifth of September, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and seventy, Berks County, in the township of Bern.

"First, My wife, Barbara, shall remain on and manage the place of my death, if she choose, and if she finds it good to keep all together and to bring up the children, but upon condition that she remain unmarried.

"Second, if she will not keep the things that are moveable goods together they may be sold by the executors, and afterwards the executors may receive the money and hand out what belongs to the children and give to my wife Barbara what belongs to her.

"Third, When my least child is fourteen years old, the place shall be appraised and my eldest son, Christian, shall have it for his property if he will have it as it shall be valued by impartial men and for two years after he takes possession of it he shall pay nothing, and afterwards twenty pounds yearly, but if he will not have the place the second has the liberty to take it even as the first should have had it, and if he will not have it, the third has the privilege to take it, and so on to the last; and if my wife Barbara remains single, and she will, she may manage the place so long till one of my children takes possession of the place; but if neither of the eldest boys will have the place the executors are allowed, if they shall think proper, to sell the place as well as they can, and divide out the money among the children in equal shares, except that the eldest shall have five pounds more than any of the others.

"Fourth, If my wife remains single after my death she shall have her seat in the house as long as she lives and shall be maintained out of the place, and the son who takes the place shall give to the mother yearly twelve bushels of grain, seven bushels of wheat and five bushels of rye, and the grass of an acre of meadow where she will take it and the second crop, and one milch cow, and shall dry and haul in her grass and second crop, and the cow shall go where his milch cows go which are on the place, and she may have her bed in the stove room if she will; and every year a quarter of an acre of good land for flax seed to be sown in and that plowed and sown as it ought to be; as many apples as she may want for her use; and when she shall be sick they shall procure her proper attendance; and every year a fat hog of 100 pounds weight, and a garden for cabbage and potatoes according to her want for her support; and when she can no longer manage her work then he that dwells on the place shall do the work for her and that she shall have to do.

"Fifth, Now that this shall be orderly fulfilled. I choose such good friends hereto as executors, namely Christian Yoder, of Bern Township, and Christian Kiner, of Tulpehocken Township. This I acknowledge that this is my Last Will and testify it with my own hand by witness and seal.

Johannes Hochstedler.

Christian his X mark Stutzman (seal)"

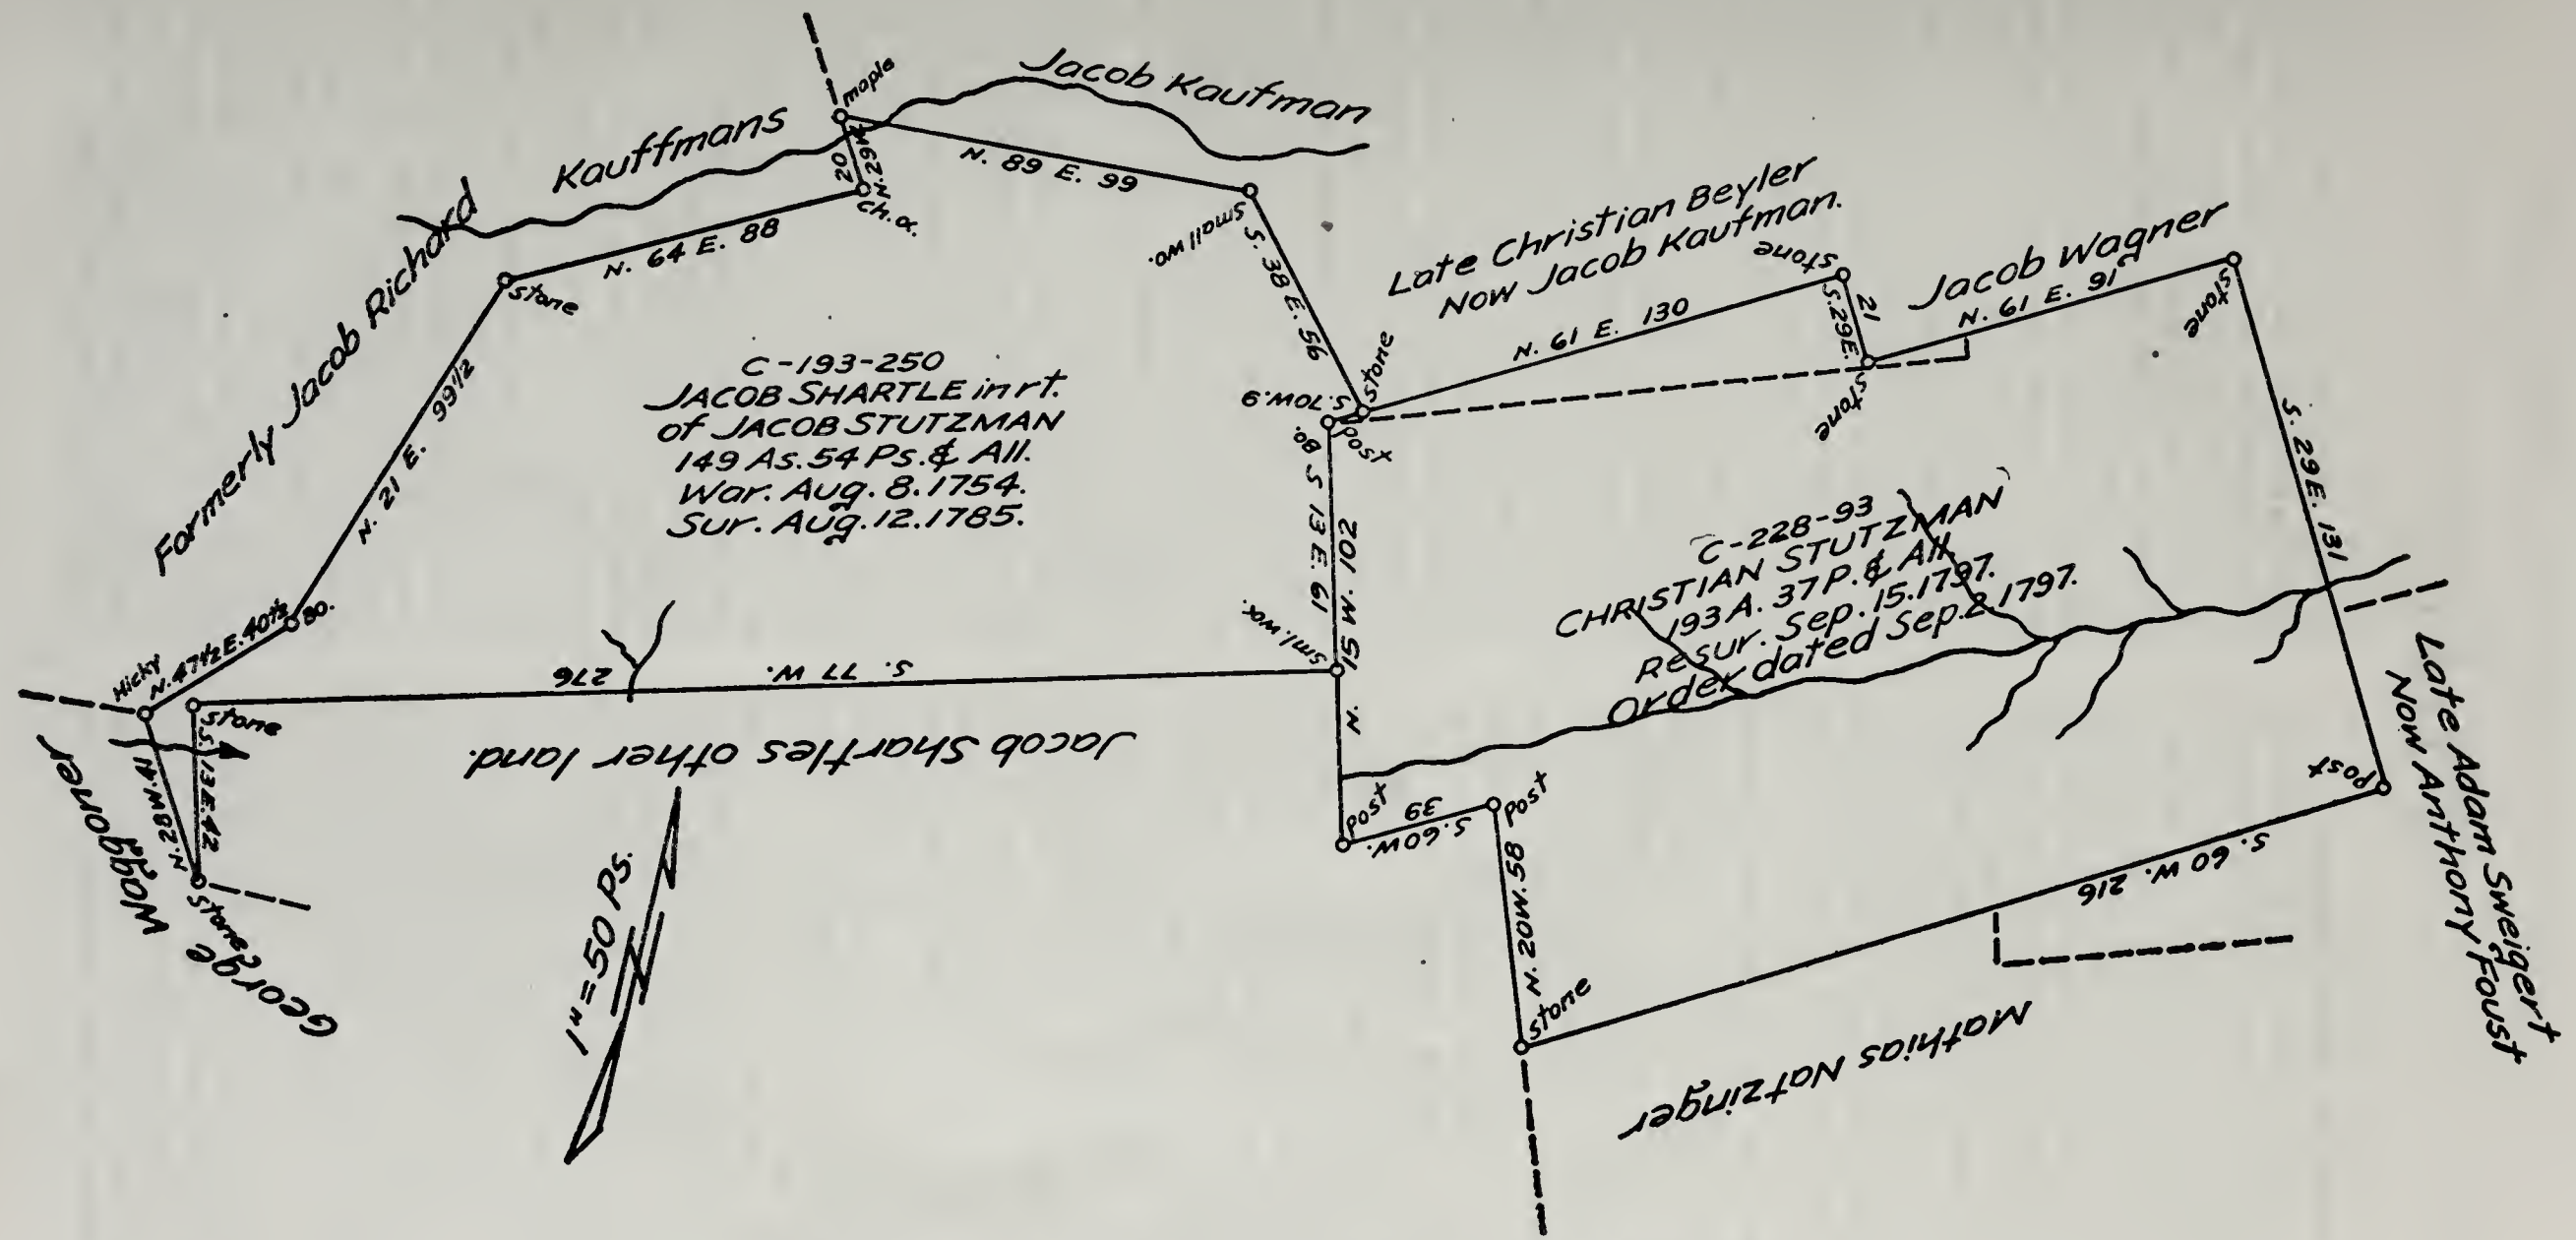
The present owner of the land is Mrs. Florence Feick acquired from Bennevil Degler as a part of the John Hochstetler farm. The part of the land west of the Northkill Creek has for over 50 years been classed as woodland and is now covered by a dense growth of underbrush and timber. The house was torn down about 1908 by its owner Frank Seifert who used part of the foundation stones and other material for a building on his other land. His son-in-law, Charles Scheidy, helped take down the house, and states that in his best recollection the house was about 28 by 24 feet, walls 16½ feet high, above stone foundation, two stories, the lower 8 feet and the upper 6 feet 6 inches facing the Northkill Creek about 300 feet west.

The first floor had a kitchen the entire width of the house, a very large fireplace at south end with metal covering at top. An enclosed stairway started at end of fireplace. Two other rooms on first floor, one larger than the other. The front and only door on west was divided about the middle, each opening and closing independently. The upper floor had four rooms, each with a window, and three windows on first floor, a little larger than those upstairs, but all smaller than those now in use. Floors, stairway and partitions were of wide pine boards, almost entirely without knots. All carpenter work and the hewn logs of the walls showed almost perfect workmanship, a high tribute to the patient skill of the builders. The gable ends faced practically north and south and had no windows. The three floors supplied the ceiling for the two stories and cellar.



In a recent trip to Shartlesville, Pa., I learned that Mrs. Florence Feick, Shartlesville, owns the land formerly owned by John Hochstetler and his sister Barbara. The Jacob Hochstetler farm, the scene of the Indian massacre is now owned by Lillie Shaffer Mooney, Mrs. H. A. Mooney, Shartlesville, Pa. She showed the old part of the house, built of stone, doubtless built by the Hochstetlers, as a precaution against being again burnt out by the Indians. In the walls of the stone building they had placed the iron door of a Franklin Heating Stove with the year 1752, showing it was made five years before the Indian attack. Mrs. Mooney has installed electric lights in the house. The frame of the barn still stands in good condition but the roof and sides are missing.

On this trip I made the acquaintance of Prof. John S. Machmer, Shartlesville, now a retired teacher, who gave great help in locating the Barbara Stutzman farm and sent a good description of the house in which she raised her family. I could have done very little without his kindly and generous help.

Our folks who plan to see these farms should take the state road from Harrisburg to Allentown, now known as William Penn Highway, number 22. After passing Strausstown several miles, watch for an old grist mill on the left side of the road. The first lane to the right toward Shartlesville leads to the scene of the massacre, where Mrs. Mooney keeps a book for visitors to register. The first lane to the right west of Mrs. Mooney leads to the former John Hochstetler, later Benneville Degler farm. The second lane to the right west of Mrs. Mooney's leads to the Christian and Barbara Stutzman farm, now thickly covered with brush and timber on the left. Prof. John S. Machmer pointed to the site of an old iron forge to the right going in, and a short distance further pointed to the location of the Christian Stutzman home as he recalled it in his boyhood days. A drawing of the house appears as a frontispiece in this book. All other pictures which I had hoped to use could not be used and keep the book under the size for which I had contracted.

Preface

The Amish and Their Religion

My very few recent visits to the State University of Iowa, at Iowa City where I graduated in 1881 have impressed me with the widespread custom for the members of the faculty and graduates wearing the cap and gown, used long ago in Europe. The main advantage of this form of dress is uniformity, that creates a better appearance. Variations in color and cut of garments, distinguish the higher and lower ranks of teachers. The conductors on some railroads are glad to have the correct number of gold bands on their coat sleeves to indicate their years of service. The average college graduate wears the cap and gown, but a single day during his lifetime.

These visits to the University have generally been followed by visits to my Amish relatives at Kalona and vicinity, whose clothing is very much like that of their ancestors in Switzerland 200 years ago. This clothing is worn not for display, but rather in a conscientious effort to live and appear as nearly as possible like their ancestors of the Amish faith. I have always felt more kindly toward the Amish clothes than toward the college caps and gowns.

The Old Order Amish, as many now like to call themselves, have through the years succeeded better in holding their young people than have many other churches. Those who leave them rarely renounce their religion but they become members of the neighboring churches of the plain people and form the larger part of the accession to these churches. Possibly this partly accounts for their giving other plain churches a wide berth when they select new locations for their church settlements.

They are easily recognized by their full beards, and cut and type of clothes, using hooks and eyes, as worn by everybody in Switzerland in the time of Jacob Ammon. An Amishman can recognize another by the buggy he drives. Prof. C. Henry Smith in his Mennonite Immigration into Pa., says:

"They settle in compact groups, thus forming self-sustaining social, economic, and religious units. They have nothing to do with politics. Beneath all their peculiarities, however, the Amish are sound in the virtues that make for real manhood and womanhood. They are among the most useful citizens. They are honest, industrious, peaceful and law-abiding, and in every way contribute their full share in building up a commonwealth." The Amish, the people of my father and father's fathers back to 1690 at least, I respect and honor here. God bless and keep them steadfast in the faith of their fathers.

The Religious Life of Our Ancestor

The religion of our ancestor and his associates enabled them repeatedly to choose the penalties which men and nations saw fit to inflict on them rather than disobey the plain teachings of their Master and Lord. As he read his Bible it gave him no warrant for obeying a church organization in requirements which he deemed contrary to the Word of God. Hence, for example, he believed that baptism is intended for those who believe in Christ, and therefore infants were not proper subjects of baptism. Holding these beliefs, he could not conscientiously join in worship in a church that taught infant baptism and made it a condition of acceptable church membership. Many families today are of the same opinion, but they are put to little trouble or inconvenience on account of such belief. In our ancestor's day, this attitude of non-compliance with church requirements involved the loss of employment, property, home and native land.

From what the Amishman reads in his Bible he also can see no warrant for war or authority to engage in it. Here again he stands squarely opposed to the opinion and practice of the men of his generation, and in times when his nation needs soldiers, and needs them badly, he has found himself in trouble with every government under which he has lived. Other men have troubles also, and endure them as best they can, but an Amishman's troubles come because others do not agree with him on matters in which he is not at liberty to modify his beliefs, and he is forced to decide whether he will obey God or man, and as a rule he does not hesitate in his choice. But this choice involves him in trouble, and the beauty and glory of his faith is that it enables him to remain steadfast to his convictions, even amongst persecution and severe trials.

Our ancestor met a severe temptation the night his home was attacked by the Indians. His son Jacob had been wounded by the Indians, who sought his life and the life of the entire family. The family were secure in the house and could easily see the Indians standing a short distance away, within easy range and reach of the weapons in the hands of the family. Perhaps a few shots in the air or in the direction of the foe might have driven them away. At any rate the family might easily have put up a hard fight. All the natural instincts impel men to fight and defend themselves and families when attacked. How came it that this frontiersman, accustomed to firearms and skilled in their use, did not yield to the entreaties of his sons that they be allowed to defend the family? It had been deeply impressed on his mind that such a course involved disloyalty to his Redeemer and Lord. His allegiance to his God had been tested again and again, and he had been well and faithfully sustained in all his trials, and should he now repudiate all former teachings and renounce a faith and allegiance that had long been his only hope and stay? Under these conditions his allegiance to his Lord rose supreme and he was enabled to continue his trust in God. To his credit be it said, he remained true to what he believed to be right. He would not disobey God, who had said, "Thou shalt not kill."

The descendants of our ancestor have been called upon again and again to endure sorrow in the death of loved ones. This is the common lot of man. But our ancestor had the trial of seeing his beloved wife, whom he had vowed to protect and cherish, brutally slain before his eyes. He saw the same merciless and relentless foe strike down his son and daughter whom he loved, as other fathers love their children. His descendants, in the hour of bereavement, have again and again sought and found their only consolation in the love and care of a tender, compassionate heavenly Father. All such can the better appreciate the faith and trust that enabled our ancestor to endure with steadfastness this severe trial to his heart. Later, when in captivity and he was to be separated from his sons who had been brought with him, he impressed upon them once again the importance of faith and prayer. May a similar faith and trust find a place in the hearts of each of his descendants as they come to understand and appreciate the strong faith that sustained our ancestor amid all his trials.

Let us follow our ancestor through the trials of his captivity and escape till we find him upon his raft on the river, which seems to be bearing him far beyond the settlements into a wilderness from which there is no human possibility of escape. The constant course of the river to the southwest baffled and perplexed and finally deprived him of hope itself. How anxiously he must have scanned the river before him, in the hope of a turn in its course. Day after day that eager gaze was unrewarded. He knew of the Ohio, and its general course, and he greatly feared he was being borne on its broad bosom, farther and farther away from his home, to a death absolutely certain. At length the persistence of the stream in its deadly course forced him to the conclusion that as death was inevitable he might as well meet it on the shore.

The shore supplied him with food which he perhaps was unable to secure for himself. Weak and weary, he sank into the deep sleep of physical exhaustion; and such sleep, as it has to many others, brought him a vision or dream. In such vision or dream, angels in Scripture times had visited and comforted another homesick and weary Jacob. But such visitations have rarely brought greater comfort and joy than came to our Jacob in the visit of his departed wife. How strange and warm the glow at his heart as he beheld her! The old life of faith and love had returned to him, and he had the same strange joy which some of his descendants may have known, in similar visions or dreams of their beloved dead. Such a vision enables them the better to understand the joy of the Saviour's disciples, when it was written of them, "Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord," after His resurrection from the dead. But this visit or vision came not simply with comfort, but it brought the guidance of which he stood in sore need. His wife assured him that he was in the right course, and he should go ahead.

How this vision changed him and his course! He returned to his raft, and to the river which he had so much feared, with its awful power to lead him to a horrible death. Now comforted by the vision, his fear was gone. No more horror from that persistent southwest flow of the stream. He had that in his heart that conquered fear of stream and certain death, the assurance from his wife who had come from the presence of God Himself, and she could not be mistaken. With a vision so assuring and a guide so unerring, he resumed his journey. Confidence and courage replaced the fear and dread of the river and its deadly course.

By and by his faith is rewarded. The long persistent southwest course of the stream, after more than a hundred miles, finally comes to an end. The course turns southeast and home seems assured. His body might become weak from lack of food, but doubt could not again trouble his mind. With confidence he continued his course, till at length came rescue and finally home.

We must glance a moment at the trials of an Amish heart, when his younger son Christian came to believe that he should forsake the church of his father for another in which he believed he had found a more excellent way. To some men all churches are alike, and such generally have little interest in any. But our ancestor was deeply attached to the church in whose interest he had been willing to sacrifice home and native land. It doubtless was the church of his fathers, and he had a father's natural interest in rearing his children for the church of his faith and love, and which he had reason for believing was the true or real church of God.

Value of a Family History

Several distinct motives have led men into researches about their ancestors. Some have had in mind possible inheritance, and if they are entitled to any such, they wanted to be sure that a clear way was open through which it might come. Others have hoped to find some illustrious man or woman in their line of ancestry, and thus like the moon they may acquire some reflected brightness when they have none of their own.

Others again have an intense yearning to learn the facts of their ancestry. To them it matters not so much that their ancestors prove to be illustrious or wealthy, but they do want to know who they were and where they lived. Such minds crave facts and truth. This leads them finally to the most useful knowledge one may have, knowledge of self. The old Greek adage still has value, "Know thyself." We have been told that the best way to train a child is to begin to train its grandfather. It is true that man may not know himself aright till he knows his grandfather. When a man has a fair knowledge of himself and his ancestry, he is in better position to do his duty to himself and family. If for example he knows that his ancestors were afflicted with constitutional or hereditary disease, he will place himself in position, so far as possible, to resist that disease. If he inherits the white plague, or consumption, he will from early life secure if possible the climate and mode of life best adapted to fortify himself against that dread scourge. If one inherits a high tension nervous system, and life is a constant reaction from intense nerve force, he will appreciate the wisdom of building up bodily powers sufficient to sustain the demands made by this nerve force.

If a man knows that his ancestors were given to excessive use of intoxicants, he may rest assured that he may have the same tendencies, and decide that the safe and sane way for him to use liquor is not to use it at all. If he knows his ancestors were much given to fierce anger and incorrigible temper he may easily see the need of practicing self-control. If his ancestors went through life lazy and shiftless, he may early begin forming habits of thrift and industry. In a thousand practical ways this knowledge of self that comes from study of ancestry will be of help.

But one does not live for self alone. His life also touches and shapes others, especially the lives of his own children. If he knows his own inherited tendencies he will early begin that course of training for his children that will best fortify them against these tendencies that are evil, and aid and strengthen as much as possible the tendencies that should be encouraged.

Unfortunately, this work will be of very little help in the study of the physical, intellectual and moral aspects of the lives of our ancestors. The task has been sufficiently large to present as far as possible the names of these ancestors. The material for these other studies has not been preserved, but it is possible in most branches of the family for these now living to make a study of their own immediate ancestry and learn at least their most prominent points of strength and weakness. In some way such studies should be handed down to coming generations.

There is however one practical service that this work may render, and that is in pointing out relationships that should be avoided in intermarriage. This work presents nearly 4500 or about 30% of all families where descendants of our ancestor have married each other. It is now generally agreed that relatives as close as first cousins should not marry, and the laws of most states forbid such marriages. Similar objections, though in less degree, exist against marriage of second cousins, and the same is true of the slighter degrees of relationship. In general, there is agreement of the most thoughtful that marriage should take place between those as little related as possible.

Those who have studied the results of intermarriage among relations point out several features that are harmful. They show that the children of closely related parents have a tendency to shortness of stature, which in time manifests itself in bodily weakness. Then again, such marriages result in impaired nervous constitutions in the children, who have a tendency to fits or epilepsy, and defective mental, moral or physical qualities.

A final result of constant intermarriage of relations is the lowering of the birth rate and the final dying out of the race. The record in these pages is the record of large families, and there is no evidence that our family is in immediate danger of extinction. It is however well to keep in mind the results of these studies on intermarriage of relations. Those who are best acquainted with our family will know whether the intermarriages that are shown in this work have resulted in harm to the offspring.

The subject of intermarriage is of special interest to those who live in the church communities, and whose acquaintance is practically limited to those settlements. The number of Amish families that came to this country in early times is comparatively small, and the descendants of these families have continued to live side by side through all these years and have intermarried again and again. There are those in the church who believe these intermarriages should be avoided as far as possible, and this work may prove a help in pointing out relationships that are not known to exist.

There are some that have declined to furnish information about their families, because of two scriptures that urge the avoiding of genealogies that are endless and that minister questions or strife. This genealogy is very long but not endless, and a work of this kind will settle disputes rather than raise them. The author at least has not been disposed to dispute with those who do not agree with him on the value of such a book. These two scriptures about avoiding genealogies in public teaching should not be so construed as to forbid the use and study of the genealogies which are found in the scriptures. One scripture must not be made to bring another scripture into reproach or condemnation.

This work is submitted to the widely scattered members of the family that they may have a better understanding of their common ancestor, and that they may know how the many people that bear the name are related to each other. Inquiring minds need no longer chafe under the limited knowledge of their ancestry, which has been the lot of many who heretofore have sought in vain of their kindred for knowledge of this kind.

Many men have believed that knowledge of this kind should be preserved. They have taken pains to write the records of their own families, in careful hand, in the pages of their family Bibles. that it might be preserved for coming generations. We can easily understand the deep interest with which one member of our family dictated to his son the account of the Indian captivity, because he felt that this knowledge should be preserved. If there is no permanent record made, such knowledge will soon disappear from the family. Some have believed that it is a duty of each generation to transmit to the next a complete genealogical record. If this work in any way aids in bringing the members of our family into a better acquaintance with each other, and if it will aid in keeping before them the life and faith of our common ancestor, the labors of these years will bring their own reward.

Just a few lines to express my deep appreciation of the Mennonite Church that has come to me during the time I have spent in their Publishing House and their Sunday school and worship services. One's faith is enriched and strengthened by sympathetic contact with the Lord's children in other groups and communions.

I have helped in proofreading mainly with Miss Thelma Gilnett whose diligence and constant effort to do a perfect piece of work is responsible in the main for the accuracy and lack of errors in the main part of the book. I have assumed responsibility for errors in the latter part, as other matters were pressing my return to Iowa. Miss Ora M. Pimlott has given faithful and efficient service in hastening the work to completion, especially in the last pages.

To all who have helped from the General Manager through all the departments I tender my heartfelt appreciation and gratitude.

History of the Hochstetler Family

I. CIVIL AND RELIGIOUS PERSECUTION IN EUROPE

As our name is a well known Swiss name, our ancestors were Swiss people and left their native country on account of religious persecutions to which the noncombatants or plain people were subjected. Soon after the reformation had gained a foothold in Germany and Switzerland under Luther and Zwingle, many pious people could not agree with them, though they felt the necessity of a reformation, believing that the Catholic church had drifted far away from the teachings of Christ and His apostles, yet they did not agree with Luther and Zwingle on other points.

Separation of Church and State.

According to the custom at that time, Luther and Zwingle placed the church under the care and supervision of the government, in which case discipline is practically out of the question, while the plain people favored a rigid church discipline; besides, they rejected infant baptism, and when children were baptized by the state church they baptized them again when they arrived at the age of accountability, hence they were called Wiedertaeufer (Anabaptists), and later just Taeufer (Baptists). By the name Taeufer they are known in Switzerland to this day. In Holland and some parts of Germany they are called Mennonites, after Menno Simon, their principal organizer, a native of West Friesland, who died in 1559. The opposition to infant baptism was regarded less important; though believed in by Zwingle, he admitted it was not necessarily essential.

Persecution of Noncombatants.

When called upon in court to give testimony they were ready to declare the truth, but would not be sworn. This caused some friction. But the principal stumbling block, especially in Switzerland, was their refusal to bear arms under the government, believing it forbidden by the Gospel of Peace. This latter doctrine was the principal cause of their persecutions in Switzerland. That country had gained its independence, adopted a constitution and established a republic in 1291, which had now been maintained for nearly 350 years against powerful surrounding monarchies on many a hard-fought battle field, and it was feared that the doctrine of nonresistance, if it became general, would endanger the government and the existence of the Republic. How can the government maintain order and protect the right when its best citizens refuse to support it by force of arms, if necessary, was held out as against this doctrine of nonresistance. The Swiss people had always been strongly attached to their country, and believing it jeopardized they relentlessly persecuted these defenseless people for several centuries. Zwingle died October 11, 1531. The persecutions commenced in his lifetime continued at intervals until near the year 1800, the time of the French revolution, which brought about changes in Switzerland as well as in France. During all this time the different branches of the Protestant church were persecuted by the Roman Catholics, and none suffered more than the Reformed, especially in France, where in the city of Paris alone, in the year 1572, 80,000 persons were slaughtered because they adhered to the Huguenot or Reformed faith.

Opposition to some of the teachings of Zwingle manifested itself first at Zurich, Switzerland, as early as 1522. In 1525, the Council of Zurich issued a decree, which ordered all unbaptized children to be baptized within eight days, and banished from the city the leaders of the Anabaptist movement. These leaders went to other parts of Switzerland, especially to Canton Bern, and to parts of Germany. Augsburg and Strasburg became centers of this teaching, which secured many followers in the Rhine provinces.

Persecution in Canton Bern.

In Canton Bern they were numerous in Emmenthal (Emmen valley), a beautiful fertile valley, where agriculture was in a high state of perfection for many centuries, and these people were generally farmers. The city of Langnau is located in this valley and has about 8,000 inhabitants. Here they prospered, but refusing to bear arms, conflicts between them and the authorities took place and persecutions followed. Some were fined, others imprisoned, or banished; some put to death, while still others were sold to perpetual slavery, to work on the galleys.

Galleys were flat built vessels with one deck and navigated with sails and oars. They were principally used in the Mediterranean Sea in shallow water or harbors to load and unload vessels of deep draught. Here they were associated with a low class of people, perhaps the most hardened of criminals, with no hope of ever seeing their families and friends. To the credit of the reformed clergy of Bern be it said that they remonstrated with the authorities against this treatment, but frictions continued until they decided to seek a home elsewhere. Many moved to the Jura mountains, also in Canton Bern, hitherto sparsely settled and little improved, but by their industry and plain way of living their settlement prospered. The tenants who had been farming this land soon complained that they could not compete with their new neighbors and were being crowded out. Their complaints to the authorities were answered by the landowners that if these people were driven away, they would not be able to pay the revenue to the government which they were now paying. One of these settlements was called Sonnenberg, from whence about the year 1818, they emigrated to America, locating in Wayne County, Ohio. This settlement bears the name Sonnenberg.

An oberamt, now called amtsbezirk in Switzerland, is a subdivision of a canton and may be termed a court circuit. Canton Bern is divided into thirty court circuits. A gemeinde, in French, commune, is a subdivision of a court circuit and answers both for civil and religious purposes. In commune Cormoret, court circuit Courtelary in the Jura mountains, among other names of Amish people is found Johannes Hochstettler, as late as 1745, having moved there from court circuit Schwarzenburg.[1] All these places are in Canton Bern, and Schwarzenburg is composed of four communes: Albigen, Guggisberg, Reuschegg and Wahlern. Dr. Christian Hostettler, who came to America in 1834, and settled near Winesburg, in Holmes County, Ohio, was from Guggisberg, as were also Alice Hostettler, of fam. 9109, and her sisters. It has not been determined whether any of these are related to our family.

The Muensterites.

In the year 1535, a number of fanatics from Holland found a refuge in the city of Muenster in Westphalia, in northern Germany, favored by a Protestant minister named Rottman. They vigorously opposed infant baptism, and the news from Muenster was hailed with joy by the Anabaptists throughout Switzerland; but they soon learned their mistake. Except baptism the Muenster people had nothing in common with Menno Simon and his adherents. On the contrary, they attempted to establish a church by force of arms, and in their fanaticism committed crimes too horrible to mention. After a desperate resistance they were crushed, but the event was most unfortunate to the Taeufer for many years. It so prejudiced many well-meaning people against all Anabaptists that their persecutions were sanctioned for a long time. After the Reformed Church had been fully established in Holland, the Mennonites, as they were here called, were tolerated, and later under William, Prince of Orange, received full protection. That government and other countries along the Rhine sometimes interceded with the authorities of Switzerland in behalf of these unfortunate people who from time to time left Switzerland, sometimes being driven away, and settled in Alsace, Hessia, as well as in Holland, until the settlement of America attracted their attention.

The Amish.

The Amish church derives its name from Jacob Amman of the Bernese Alps, who lived over one hundred years later than Menno Simon, and believed that the church should return to earlier and stricter customs and practices, from which many in his time had departed. Especially did he urge a stricter observance of the ban, or the "avoidance" and "shunning" of those who had been excommunicated by the church. Amman and his followers were opposed by Hans Reist, who defended the usages of the church. There were many earnest discussions between these parties through the Oberland and Emmanthaler regions. Amman introduced among his followers the full beard and the using of hooks and eyes instead of buttons on men's clothes, as had been the custom in the times of Menno Simon, especially in Belgium.[2] The feeling between these two parties was very bitter, and as late as 1711, when many of both parties were driven out of Switzerland, they refused to use the same boat on the journey down the Rhine. In 1700 Amman and some of his followers wrote to Reist to secure a reconciliation, and among the signers are the names Isak Kauffman and Christian Blank, family names very common among the Amish of today.

The division between the followers of Amman and Reist has never been healed, but has been transplanted to America and other countries. The Amish church originated in the Canton of Bern and from there its members went into Alsace-Lorraine and the Palatinate, and from these places many of the members of that church have come to America. Our ancestor, Jacob Hochstetler, was of the Amish church, but it is not known whether he came to America from the Palatinate, or from Switzerland through the Palatinate or Rhine Provinces. The accounts among the descendants of his son Christian state that our ancestor "was born in the Highlands of Germany along the Rhine."

II. OUR ANCESTOR'S NEW HOME IN AMERICA

Settlement of Pennsylvania.

After William Penn had purchased, in 1682, from the British Crown the province of Pennsylvania, he went to the mainland of Europe to solicit settlers for his colony and found most ready acceptance from the Mennonites, whom he had previously visited as a representative of the Quakers. He visited Holland and the countries along the Rhine, where he found many Mennonites and Amish longing for a change. The inducements held out to them prompted many to emigrate to America, likewise many other Germans. The first Swiss Amish to settle in America had years before emigrated to Alsace, Hessia and the Palatinate. Some of the Jotters (Yoders), Oeschs, Gingerichs, Schlabachs and others, when coming to America spoke the Hessian dialect, but were originally Swiss. After about the year 1700, the Swiss Amish sometimes made their way direct to our country. Traveling at that time was tedious and crossing the ocean hazardous and a journey from Switzerland to America required the greater part of a summer, an average ocean passage requiring about fifty days.

1. History of "Taeufer in Canton Bern," by Rev. Ernest Miller, p. 249. The same work, page 344, refers to the attempted arrest of Catherina Hofstetter of Kroeschbrunnen; page 213 of the same work mentions among the residents of Monsheim, Hessia, a family named Hochstetter, who had years before come there from Canton Bern.

2. Smith's Mennonites in America, p. 68.

The Registration Law.

So successful were the efforts made by the proprietors of Pennsylvania to secure settlers and so ready were the oppressed Mennonites of Europe to avail themselves of the advantages offered in America that many thousands found homes in the new land. The Germans, Swiss and Palatinates came in such numbers that the Provincial authorities became uneasy and finally, September 27th, 1727, passed an ordinance requiring the captains of ships to report the names and ages of their passengers, the place from which they came and state whether they came with intentions of becoming good citizens of the Province. They also required the men over sixteen years of age to sign a declaration of allegiance to the Province. This law makes it possible for many thousands of American citizens to know the name and date of arrival of their immigrant ancestors. These lists have been published in the Pennsylvania Archives, Series 2, Vol. 17, also in Rupp's Names of 30,000 immigrants. Many of these lists are preserved in the department of Archives, in the State library at Harrisburg. Unfortunately the printed lists are not always accurate.

Our Ancestor.

From the year 1728 for about nine years was a period of quite active persecution of the Amish and Mennonites both in Switzerland and the Palatinate. It is not known whether our ancestor left the old world as a direct result of these persecutions, or whether he joined the steady line of immigrants that came to better their conditions in America. Nor do we know the place from which he came. When he declared his allegiance to the Province, the entire company of 151 men were said to be from the Palatinate, upon the Rhine and places adjacent. The term Palatine was used to include the Swiss who had come down the Rhine through the Palatinate or Rhine Province. The captain of the ship reported that his vessel began its voyage at Rotterdam in Holland. One naturally inquires whether there are at Rotterdam any records of the previous residences of immigrants who there embark. The American Consul there wrote in answer to inquiry, that such records are now kept, but go back only about fifty years.

Jacob Hofstedler.

Our ancestor, Jacob Hofstedler, arrived at Philadelphia September 1st, 1736, on the ship Harle, Ralph Harle, Master, from Rotterdam, last from Cowes, England. The captain reported that he brought one hundred and fifty-six men, sixty-five women, one hundred and sixty-seven boys and girls, in all three hundred and eighty-eight. Only one hundred and fifty-one of the men made their declaration of allegiance, the other four being reported sick and unable to leave the vessel.

His Name Written.

Our ancestor being unable to write, his name was written for him on the ship captain's list by the captain or his clerk, and the name was pronounced so that the writer thought it should be written Hofstedler, and this list gives his age at landing as thirty-two years. The passengers were taken immediately to the Court House and made their declaration of allegiance, and again his name was written for him, Hofstedler, which might be termed his legal or official name.[3] A recent examination of these two lists shows the name was thus written on both lists in a clear and unmistakable hand. The name is incorrectly given in Rupp's list and also in one list of Pa. Archives, Second series, Vol. 17. The ship captain's list contains the name Michael Holsacker, written by the captain or clerk, with age column left blank. This is the name that appears in Rupp's Thirty Thousand Names as Michael Hochstaedter, and may be the unmarried brother of our ancestor, who according to tradition came to this country with his brother, but being dissatisfied with the treatment accorded him by his brother's wife, returned after a short time to the old country. He was among those reported sick and his name does not appear among those who declared their allegiance.

The Family Name.

Our ancestor is the only immigrant between 1727 and 1808 of those of similar name who had "ler" as the final syllable of the name and he managed to retain that syllable through three of his land entries, which were made out to Jacob Hoofstetler, Jacob Hooshtedler, Jacob Hostedler and Jacob Hostetter. Christopher Sauer's Journal, giving an account of the massacre, spells it Hoffstettler, and the body of his petition to the governor has it Jacob Hostetler. The early land warrants in Somerset County, Pennsylvania, given to his descendants are issued in the name Houghstadler, with the first syllable pronounced probably as in cough, or enough. Those who wrote the name of our ancestor on his arrival, ended the second syllable with the letter "d," which may have been the German or Swiss pronunciation of the letter "t." This "d" appears in the Somerset County land warrants, and was used by at least two of the grandsons of the immigrant, once at least by his son John, and by quite a number of the family at the present day. The first syllable of the name has generally been written Hoch by the members of the family who use the German language, though the Somerset County land titles necessitated the syllable Hough in the signatures to deeds. It was so written by John Hochstetler, the oldest son of the immigrant. The branch of our family in Germany at the present time and as far back as 1793 write the first syllable in the same way and they write the full name, Hochstettler. The "f" in the first syllable of the name as written for our ancestor and the sound of the "f" in the Somerset County land warrants, as well as the "ff" written by so good an authority as Christopher Sauer, and its frequent use in the tax lists, suggests that this may have been the ending of the first syllable as the name frequently appears in Switzerland, as may be seen in number 9189 in the appendix.

3. "At the court house of Philadelphia, September 1, 1736, Present, The Hon. James Logan, Esq., President; Clement Plumstead, Thomas Laurence, Samuel Hasell, Charles Read, Esquires; William Allen, Mayor of Philadelphia, and Derick Janssen, Esq., one of the Justices of Philadelphia County. 151 Foreigners from the Palatinate upon the Rhine and the places adjacent, with their families, making in all 388 persons, were imported here in ship Harle, of London, Ralph Harle, Master, from Rotterdam but last from Cowes, as by clearance thence, were this day qualified as usual, whose names are as follows." Among the names is that of Jacob Hofstedler. Col. Records, Vol. 3, pp. 58-9.

The ending, "ch," of the first syllable is very difficult for English speaking people to pronounce, as the letters are pronounced quite nearly as if silent. Hoch is also pronounced hock in English, and leads to the mispronunciation, Hockstetler, by those who do not understand German. This mispronunciation is quite annoying, and for this reason many who live among English speaking people, have dropped the "ch" from the name. This makes it almost impossible to retain the long sound of the "o," unless the syllable is written, Hoes, as appears in families 6562-3-8 and 6572. Most of those who have dropped the "ch" have become reconciled to have the name pronounced as it is spelled, which gives the short sound of the letter "o." They would rather yield the long sound of the "o" than maintain a lifelong fight against the laws of the English language. This is very nearly the form of the name Hostettler found at Guggisberg, Switzerland. See families 9096 and 9109. In Canton Bern and other parts of Switzerland an orchard near a house is called Hostatt, pronounced Hostet, and some suppose that this gave origin to the name. The word Hostatt, orchard, it is thought was derived from the word, Hofstatt, or large landed estate.

Other Immigrants.

The other early immigrants of name similar to ours, are Jacob Hochstetter, who located in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, as early as 1712; Oswald Hostetter, who came to Philadelphia in 1732, Jacob Hochstetter, in 1738; Ulrich Hostetter, of September 11th, 1749; and Christian Hochstaetter, Ulrich Hostetter and Nichlaus Hochstetter, of September 15th, 1749.

The descendants of our ancestor as they appear in this work have spelled the name Hochstedler, Hochstedtler, Hochstetler, Hochstettler, Hoestetler, Hogstadler, Hostedler, Hosteter, Hostetler, Hostetter, Hostettler and Hostutler. The family has in the main adhered to the final syllable "ler." The nearest approach to this form of the name, as distinguished from the families whose name ends in "ter," appears in the name Hoffstetli, as given in the appendix, number 9189. The same appendix number gives a number of names and places in Switzerland and elsewhere that suggest the place where the family originated. Some have claimed that the family came from the villages Gross or Klein Hochstetten, in the Canton Bern, while the family at Guggisberg holds that all of the family name originated there.

It will also be seen that the spelling of the name counts for little. Formerly names in Europe suffered changes, but since education is more general, the laws forbid and courts do not recognize changes. In America it is different. With many, the sooner a German name can be made to sound English, the better. The change is sometimes the result of ignorance, but often pride is the motive. Many seem actually ashamed of their German name. In some cases, the change is slight, as Becker, Baker; Mueller, Miller. German names do not end in y preceded by a consonant but terminate in i, as Buerki, Forni, Gnaegi, Kuenzli, etc. Such names seldom retain the original spelling. By changes in spelling many names lose their identity and meaning, as most names have originally some meaning. Our name is composed of two words, Hoch, meaning high and Stettler, a town person. Stettler alone is a common name in Switzerland. It has occurred that a woman named Stettler in Allen County, Ohio, married a man of our name, simply prefixing "hoch" to her name for the change. Some have thought that the name is derived from a city or town Hochstadt and the syllable "ter" or "ler" added to it would mean a resident or citizen of Hochstadt. There are two cities of this name in Bavaria, one Hoechstadt (an der Aisch), about twenty miles southwest of Bamberg in the northern part, and in the southern part—Hoechstadt (an der Donau), about thirty miles northeast of Ulm. Gerber (tanner) is changed to Garver. There is a town, canton and lake in Switzerland named Zug, yet this name is changed to Zook. Heirschberg (Deer Mountain), in Canton Appenzell, is the source from which Hirschberger is derived; the name is rendered Herschberger or Hershberger. Kaufman in German means merchant. It was formerly written Kauffman. To their credit be it said that most of this family have retained the original spelling. To retain the spelling of the father's name shows a proper regard for the parents,—"Honor thy father and thy mother."

Given names are also changed. Veronica, the V pronounced like F, has been rendered Verona, Freni, now generally written Fanny in America. It will also be seen by our genealogy that in our day there is a tendency to write feminine names in a diminutive style, as Lizzie, Carrie, Susie. Retaining the name of ancestors unchanged indicates a becoming regard for them; by so doing we honor and respect them. Otherwise there is little in a name itself if not ornamented by deeds.

Fellow Passengers.

It is interesting to note that some of the men who were fellow ship passengers with our ancestor bear names that occur frequently in this work. Some of these, with their ages on arrival, are: Johannes Lorentz, 40; Andreas Kurtz, 29; Christian Erb, 46; Mathias Speck, 53; Johannes Wilhelm Speck, 23; Joh. Philip Wageman, 23; Heinrich Gearhart, 48; Valentine Neu, 24; Christian Schryack, 18; Christian Landes, 26; Johannes Meyer, 48; Casper Meyer, 32; Christian Suder, 23; Johannes Gerber, 23; Jonathan Heger, 22; Jacob Cuntz, 23; Michael Linder, 36; Thomas Hummel, 28; Johannes Schneider, 28; Balthaser Stephanus, 40; Jacob Laedterman, 21, and Han George Handtwerch, 32.

First Months in America.

Our ancestor, on his arrival at Philadelphia, had with him his wife, name unknown, but according to note to fam. 8308, she may have been a Lorentz. According to tradition, his oldest son, John, was about three years old, and there may possibly have been another child. Philadelphia was then a little over fifty years old and had a population of between eight and ten thousand. The country for about fifty miles from the city was occupied by settlers. Where he made his first home after arrival is not known, nor how he spent the first eighteen months. At that time the ship captains often sold the services of able-bodied passengers to those who were willing to pay the passage of those unable to pay their own. The name of our ancestor has not been found among the lists of redemptioners. Like many Amish immigrants of later date, he may have found employment the first year among members of his own church, till he was able to secure land and begin farming for himself.

Having left his native country, Switzerland, with its beautiful lakes, valleys and picturesque mountain scenery, the dearest spot on earth to him, to seek a home beyond the sea, he now looked around for a location, being in rank a yeoman, so named in his first land warrant. The choicest land within fifty or sixty miles of Philadelphia being already occupied, he was obliged to go some distance to obtain desirable government land.

Settlement in Brecknock Township.

The township of Brecknock, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, was settled mainly during 1738, and June 15th of that year a warrant for 200 acres in that township was issued to Jacob Hoofstetler. This doubtless was the first land owned in this country by our ancestor. He held this land but a short time, and there is on record no deed by which he transferred it. The land however was surveyed, November 5th, 1765, for George Petry, in right of Jacob Hoofstetler, and was patented May 16th, 1829, by John Lesher, Jr. Many old deeds are not on record, and the records at Lancaster do not show to whom John Lesher, Jr., transferred this land. Our ancestor, after a short stay in Brecknock township, decided to make his home in the Amish settlement, on the Northkill, in Bern township, Lancaster County, but since 1752 in Berks County.

On the Northkill.

February 27th, 1739, a warrant was granted to Valentine Neu, probably the fellow passenger of our ancestor, and Jacob Hochstettler for 100 acres and allowance in Bern Township, Lancaster County. Another warrant for the same tract was obtained by Jacob Hooshstedler alone on October 25th of the same year, and Neu is left out. The land is described as situated on the Northkill, and adjoining Christian Berkie in Tulpehocken Township, and the tract was named Ipswich. The Northkill formed the boundary line between the townships of Bern and Tulpehocken, both then in Lancaster County. May 8th, 1747, a warrant was obtained by Jacob Hostedler for 50 acres adjoining the 100 acre tract; when surveyed later it was found to be 80 acres. On January 30th, 1755, Jacob Hostetter obtained a warrant for 50 acres adjoining his other land. The adjoining landowners are given as: Valentine Neu, Melchior Detweiler, Hans Fike, Christian Stutzman and the late Peter Graybill. The 80 acres was the tract upon which the son John later resided, and the three tracts when surveyed and patented were found to contain about 250 acres. This constituted the old home and the home of son John.

May 22nd, 1751, Jacob Hushtebler obtained a warrant for 109 acres of land in Heidelberg Township, Berks County. This was entirely surrounded by vacant land and must have been about ten miles from his home on the Northkill. This land was surveyed September 19th, 1758, for Jacob Amer, in right of Jacob Hushtebler. If our ancestor was the Jacob Hushtebler that entered this last named tract of land and the tract in Brecknock Township, Lancaster County, he entered in all over 500 acres, but never patented any of it, that is, never paid for any of it in full, to obtain a government deed.

Public Land.

Government land in Pennsylvania was not surveyed in townships and sections as was done farther west. William Penn purchased the province from the King of England. He therefore owned it, and at the time our ancestor obtained his land, Penn's possessions had passed to his sons, Richard and Thomas Penn. To them as the proprietaries application was made for public land. The method practiced was about like this: A piece of land was selected, perhaps measured by stepping and the trees on the boundary lines or corners marked (all that country being heavy set with timber) according as the lines were desired, but there was no rule as to shape or size. Application, perhaps with a rough draft, was then made in writing and a warrant obtained. Some money was paid and later the land was properly surveyed, the corners and lines established, but most of the land was not fully redeemed or paid for until many years later. The proprietaries kept an accurate account of all payments, computed the interest, and when finally redeemed, the patentee was furnished a large settlement sheet along with the government deed. The land office at Harrisburg has no records of payments made for land earlier than December 22, 1738, so we do not know what payment was made on the land in Brecknock Township. The land office has no record of any payment when the first land was taken on the Northkill.

Making a Home.

Our ancestor made a good selection of land, which, as before stated, lay east of the Northkill, a rapidly flowing creek, which heads in the mountain and flows south into Tulpehocken creek at Bernville, which in turn empties into the Schuylkill opposite Reading. Before the introduction of steam it furnished valuable water power. Shomo's Mill and an iron forge were near Hochstetler's home on the creek, probably built after the American Revolution. The buildings on both places are located some distance south of the state road leading from Harrisburg to Allentown, but the land extends across the road a considerable distance. The road probably at that time was not laid out. There seems to be no waste land to it, some being best adapted for pasture or permanent meadow, but the greater part is rolling and is a productive, tillable soil. It is about a mile west of the present village of Shartlesville, in Upper Bern Township, Berks County, Pennsylvania.

Perhaps not a tree nor a brush had previously been removed. He selected a place for his buildings near a never-failing spring, which furnished fresh water for man and beast. In time the heavy timber was removed, the land cleared, substantial buildings erectced, all of which required hard labor and perseverance. Several acres of fruit trees were planted and the usual hardships of frontier life gone through. But they enjoyed liberty to worship God as their conscience dictated.

At that time reading material was scarce. The family library generally consisted of the Psalms, printed in a small volume, the New Testament, the Bible, with the German Hymn Book called Ausbund, this Hymn Book being at that time in common use by the Amish. The book, "Wandelnde Seele" was then found in nearly every home. There were in those days no public schools and parents had their children taught in subscription schools, or in the home. The education of the children was therefore limited. However, father Hochstetler did not neglect the training of his children, for his son John was able to write a fair German hand, as appeared in a paper which the writer saw at Frederick Moyer's, bearing date February 1st, 1755, which John witnessed. In due time John was married, his wife being Catherine Hertzler, as appears in a book owned by B. B. Miller, Walnut Creek, Holmes County, Ohio.[4] Good buildings were erected for him on the tract of land entered by the father, adjoining the old home farm on the south, also near a good spring, and so he was comfortably started near the old home.

First Amish Church.

The settlement in the Northkill became the home of what some claim as the first Amish church in America[5], an organization having been established as early as 1740. But the Yoders and others settled in Oley township much earlier and most likely had Amish among them, as there was an Amish congregation in that township.[6] In 1742 there were enough of the nonresistant people living in this locality to petition the Provincial assembly for exemption from the oath, on being naturalized, a privilege which had already been granted the Quakers and Mennonites in Pennsylvania. Their request was granted. In 1749 Jacob Hertzler settled in this district and is claimed by some as being the first Amish bishop in America.

A second Amish settlement was made on the upper Conestoga, in Lancaster county, near the present Morgantown. This congregation is still in existence while the one on the Northkill has long since disappeared.

Our ancestor was thus enabled to rear his family in the church of his faith. The congregation met for worship on Sabbath at the homes of the members. In 1766 Richard and Thomas Penn donated to the Amish Mennonite congregation of Bern Township 20 acres of land for church, school and graveyard purposes.[7] The district extended along the south side of the Blue Ridge as far east as Hamburg. The settlement was not exclusively Amish, but good feeling prevailed throughout the neighborhood. The community grew steadily in population and in 1752 it was deemed necessary to establish the county of Berks, made up of territory taken from Philadelphia, Lancaster and Chester counties. On the first tax list of Bern Township, Berks County, appears the name of our ancestor, as well as the familiar Amish names of Jacob Hertzler, Christian Yoder, John Yoder, Christian Zoog, and Moritz Zoog. In the first list of Maxatawny Township appears the name John Hosteder in 1754, and John Hoffstatter in 1755, but does not appear later.

III. FRENCH AND INDIAN WAR

The old home, especially during the first years, was frequently visited by Indians, who gradually withdrew as the white settlers advanced, but as they had been fairly and honestly dealt with by the noble William Penn, they never molested the white settlers of the lower part of Pennsylvania after Penn settled there. A few depredations by white men committed against the Indians were promptly punished by the government. The Indians did the same thing with their bad men, so a general good feeling prevailed, until the beginning of the French and Indian War in 1754.

The Delawares.

New Jersey and a large portion of Pennsylvania was inhabited by a powerful Indian tribe called Delawares, in their language, Lenni Lenape, signifying original people. They were divided into three sub-tribes, viz., Unamis or Turtle; Unabachtgo, or Turkey, and the Minsi, also Muncie, or Wolf tribe. These tribes were again subdivided and received names from the localities where they lived. The Wolf tribe occupied the southeastern part of Pennsylvania including Berks County. The Moravians, originally from Austria and later from Herrenhut in Saxony, had commenced to do mission work among the Delawares at Oley (hollow among hills), also written Olink or Olo, which is east of the Schuylkill in Berks County. They had met with success and by their zeal and pious, Christian way of living had gained the respect and confidence of the Red Man. Oley was for a long time the center of Moravian or Herrenhuter missions in different parts of the country, extending into the state of New York. During the terrible conflict between the English settlers of one part and the French and Indians of the other, the Indians at Oley remained peaceable and quiet, having adopted Christianity, and are scarcely mentioned in the old records.

Danger for Border Settlers.

When the war broke out it was evident that the settlers along the Blue Mountains, in Indian called Kittatiny, would be exposed to the tomahawk and scalping knife of the Indians. Very few settlers had ventured beyond the mountain. The government with the help of nearby settlers erected a number of forts along the mountain from the Delaware to the Susquehanna, Fort Hunter on the Susquehanna, a few miles above the present Harrisburg, being the most westerly. Fort Manada on Manada creek was next, being in Dauphin County. At Swatara Gap in Lebanon County was Fort Swatara. Fort Henry, or Dietrich Six, and Fort Northkill were in Berks County; Fort Franklin and Fort Lebanon in Schuylkill County; Fort Everest in Lehigh, and Fort Allen in Carbon County. Fort Harris was near the present Harrisburg, and farther north at the forks of the Susquehanna near Shamokin was Fort Augusta. These forts were constructed after the manner of those days to afford protection to the border settlers against the attack of the savage Indians. Whenever apprised in time the settlers took refuge in the forts, not one of which was taken or attacked during the war. The Indians carefully avoided them; sneaked through woods mostly in the nighttime and suddenly fell upon unsuspecting families; robbed and murdered them, and as suddenly disappeared before help could come from the forts. The country along the mountains seemed just suited to the Indian mode of warfare.

Cause of the War.

The French who held Canada erected a number of forts on the lakes, also on the Ohio river, evidently intending to head off the English settlements westward, but to this the English would not submit; so hostilities were commenced, which at first proved disastrous to the English, the settlers in the colonies suffering the most. The French offered the Indians more for their land and better terms of trade than they received from the English and so induced them to join the French. The British sent an army under General Braddock to capture Fort Duquesne, now Pittsburgh, which suffered a terrible defeat from the combined forces of the French and Indians on July 9, 1755. Emboldened by this victory the Indians were led to believe that with the help of the French they could drive all the English settlers from the country and regain their land. The Delaware Indians were not as warlike as the Iroquois, but having drawn northward and westward into their territory, were now in their power.

After the Indians had relinquished their claims to that part of the country inhabited by the Delawares and had sought habitations in other places, small roving bands frequently came through the settlements, begging their way, and caused no fear or terror among the people, who improved their farms and buildings; erected churches and schoolhouses and enjoyed rural life in peace and tranquillity. They had reason to believe that since they had very little to fear of the Indians while they were living almost among them, they certainly had nothing to fear from them when they had gone farther away. But emboldened by their success in routing the army under Braddock, the Indians began to move eastward in larger numbers toward the border settlements. The first murder in Berks County probably occurred in the month of November, 1755. Under date of November 19, 1755, Col. Weiser wrote that he had just learned that the Indians for the first time had attacked settlers south of the Blue Mountains.[8]

Fort Northkill.

Fort Northkill was erected in February, 1756, about two miles from Strausstown, to the north and east of that place, and about four miles from Shartlesville. This fort lay about midway between Fort Henry on the west and Fort Lebanon on the east, each about eleven miles away. The daily record of the officer in charge of this fort has been printed, and covers the period between June 14th, 1757, and August 31, of the same year.[9]. Under date of October 4, 1757, Col. Weiser speaks of enclosing the Journal for the last month of his ensign at Fort Northkill.[10]

The author of the Frontier Forts assumes that this was the Journal which ends with August 31, and which has been preserved. If such a Journal was kept for the month of September, 1757, it would doubtless mention the attack on the family of our ancestor. But if such a Journal was kept, its whereabouts and contents are unknown. The author of the Frontier Forts believes that the troops were withdrawn from Fort Northkill some time in September, because early in October two lieutenants and forty soldiers were sent from Reading for the relief and protection of the settlers on the Northkill, which would not have been necessary had there been soldiers at the fort. At the same time Conrad Weiser urged strongly the return of his troops who had been taken from him to protect Fort Augusta, as the population had now left the country about that Fort.[11]

In the Frontier Forts the accounts of the forts of the Blue Mountains including the Northkill, were prepared by so excellent an authority as Mr. H. M. M. Richards, of Lebanon, Pa. As printed in the Pa. Arch., the date of this document is given as 1754, a date which misled Brunner, as well as the Editor of the appendix of the Archives, who uses this date as the basis for a discussion of the Frontier Forts. Mr. Richards, author of the Frontier Forts, points out that this document must belong to 1757, and gives various reasons for his belief. He does not mention that the document itself furnishes evidence that it belongs to 1757 when it states that August 7 and 14 were Sundays, which was true of 1757. It is not known that this evidence has been heretofore pointed out.

The account we have of the daily task of the soldiers of the Fort, is mainly the story of a constant scouting of soldiers through the woods between the forts and finding or seeing nothing of the enemy. The Indians often saw the soldiers doubtless and carefully kept out of sight. During August the farmers had requested the services of the soldiers for help in their harvest fields and this help was given. The officers at the other forts were in constant need of more men and it may be that the Northkill force was taken to these other forts, and it may be that the military authorities were disposed to use their fighting forces to aid those who were ready to help themselves, as the Amish in the vicinity of Fort Northkill of course would not join in any fighting. A careful reading of the Northkill Journal shows that the presence of the soldiers may have been a check to the depredations of the Indians, but did not entirely hinder their attacking the settlers living even within a short distance of the forts.

The Summer of 1757.

From the Northkill Journal and other sources we learn of attacks made by the Indians upon seven or eight families in the immediate neighborhood of our ancestor, upon families with whom he was personally acquainted. He would of course hear reports of murders of hundreds of others who lived at greater distances. A daughter of Andrew Wolbeck of Bern Township was captured by the Indians November 2, 1756. The next day an attack was made on the family of Nicholas Long, near Fort Northkill, and two men were killed and Bernard Motz made captive. In this attack there were about twenty Indians, who were driven off by seven men from the fort, after seventeen farmers, doubtless noncombatants who had gone from the fort with the soldiers, had fled, leaving the seven to do the fighting. On the tenth of December of the same year the house of Valentine Nigh or Neu, doubtless the fellow passenger and neighbor of our ancestor, was attacked, and one of his sons killed and another made prisoner. In the same month the wife of George Peter Gisinger, of Tulpehocken Township, was made captive, and the following April her husband was killed and scalped, and the same day a daughter of Balthazer Smith, of Bethel Township, was carried away captive. April 28th, 1757, John Adam Miller was killed at his home west of the mountain. The next murders were at the Meyers family, who resided about three miles from our ancestor, and of which a fuller account will be given later. The summer of 1757 was comparatively free from disturbance, though the Indians kept the settlers in a constant state of apprehension. None knew where the next blow would fall.

IV. THE MASSACRE

The Attack.

On the evening of September 19, 1757, that part of the country not having been disturbed since the Meyers murders in June, the young people of the neighborhood gathered at the home of Jacob Hochstetler to assist in paring and slicing apples for drying. At such gatherings it was the custom of the young folks after the work was done to have a social or frolic, sometimes continuing until late in the night. After the young folks departed the family retired; and just about the time they were sound asleep, the dog made an unusual noise, which awakened Jacob, the son, who opened the door to see what was wrong, when he received a gunshot wound in the leg. He realized in a moment that they were being attacked by Indians and managed to close and lock the door before the Indians could enter. In an instant all the family were on their feet. The Indians, eight or ten in number, were seen standing near the bake oven in consultation, evidently near daybreak, as there was no moon that night, the last full moon having occurred September 7th.[12] There being no light in the house, those inside could not be seen. There were several guns and plenty of ammunition at hand. Joseph and Christian picked up their guns to defend the family. Two or three could be shot and the guns reloaded before the Indians could gain an entrance, but their father, firmly believing in the doctrine of nonresistance, remaining faithful in the hour of sorest trial, could not give his consent. In vain they begged him; he told them it was not right to take the life of another even to save one's own. Joseph ever afterward claimed the family could have been saved had he given his consent, as they were both good, steady marksmen (their father also) and the Indians never stood fire unless under cover.

The House Set Afire.

The Indians stood in consultation for a few minutes and then set the house on fire. The family consisted of six persons: The parents, Jacob, Jr., Joseph, Christian and a daughter, name not known. As the fire progressed, they sought refuge in the cellar, while the Indians stood guard around the house. When the fire had advanced so far as to burst through the floor, its advance was checked by sprinkling cider on the burning spots.

As daylight was now nearing it was thought the enemy would not remain much longer and the family hoped to hold out until they departed. Meanwhile the disturbance attracted the attention of John, living on the adjoining farm. A few steps from his door he could see over to the old home, which being on fire, surrounded by the savages and all the family within, presented a shocking sight. The safety of his wife and child appealed to him. Hastening into his house he took and concealed them in a thicket of brush in a flat place about eighty rods south of his house, and returned to see what could be done for those at the old home. There was no telling where the enemy might strike next, hence he prudently concealed his tracks, and on reaching a place where he could observe the old home, the Indians were just finishing their bloody work.

Family Driven from the House.

The family had kept quiet in their retreat, beating the fire back as best they could, and beheld the Indians leaving one after another. The stay in their retreat could scarcely be endured longer and believing the enemy had all left, proceeded to get out through a small window in the basement wall. As they emerged, a young warrior, Tom Lions, about 18 years old, who had lingered behind gathering ripe peaches, observed them and gave the alarm.

The Murders.

The mother, being a fleshy woman, was with difficulty extricated; besides, the wounded Jacob had to be assisted, and by the time the family were all out they were surrounded, were all easily captured except Joseph who, being swift-footed like a deer, circled around, eluded them and ran up the hill, followed by two Indians who had thrown their guns away, determined to take him alive. He easily outran them and beholding them give up the chase and return to the burning building, he dropped down behind a log. It happened that one of the Indians observed him, but they hastened to the scene of carnage. The son Jacob and the daughter were tomahawked and scalped. But the mother, against whom they seemed to have a particular spite, was stabbed to the heart with a butcher knife and was scalped.

There is a tradition that years before hostilities broke out between the Delaware Indians and the white settlers, a party of Indians called at the Hochstetler home, being in want, begged subsistence, were refused and gruffly turned off by mother Hochstetler. Some of them picked up a coal and drew a rude picture on the wall at the porch, which together with their grimaces forboded no good to the family, but seemed to indicate they were to take revenge. Some believe that but for this unkindness the family would never have been molested; but when it is considered that over 300 mere murdered in that section of the country alone, it is not likely that our ancestors were singled out just for this unkindness. The manner in which mother Hochstetler was put to death, however, shows that they had some special grievance against her. The Indians at that time believed that to die under the tomahawk or to be shot was the death of a warrior, and therefore an honorable death, but to die in some other violent way was to them a dishonorable and disgraceful death; hence the mother was killed in that way, they not having time to burn her at the stake.

The Prisoners.

It is a tradition that when an Indian had raised his tomahawk over the head of Christian, he looked up, and as the Indian beheld his beautiful blue eyes, took a liking to him and spared him. The disturbance had also attracted the family of Jacob Kreutzer, residing to the west. They came running through the woods to the edge of the meadow, but on beholding what was going on they stopped, not being prepared to enter into a conflict with the savage foe. The bloody work being finished, they took Jacob Hochstetler and son Christian prisoners, left again in the direction they had started before, surrounding the place where Joseph was concealed and easily captured him. Had he known he could easily have made his escape, but he feared he might encounter Indians on ahead and so thought best to remain in his hiding-place. The barn and all out-buildings, including a distillery, were destroyed by fire before the Indians left. The father picked up some ripe peaches and advised his sons to do likewise. He also advised them to submit gracefully to their fate as far as possible. At this late date only a meager account of all their experience can be given, and to understand such a narrative, one ought to be familiar with the environments and the manners and customs of the Indians at that time.

Impressions Made by the Massacre.

The raid upon our ancestor appears to have resulted also in several other deaths. The reports show that a soldier, Philip Summer, was killed the same day and that Michael Spright (possibly Specht) and two children were made captive. The massacre made a profound impression. Under date of October 1, 1757, Col. Weiser wrote to Governor Dewey, "Captain Oswald, upon hearing the distress the people about Northkill were in, sent immediately two Lieutenants with forty private men to their assistance. I can not describe the consternation the people are in, in these parts."[13]

Three days later he again wrote from Heidelberg, "It is now come so far that murder is committed almost every day; there never was such consternation among the people; they must now leave their houses again with their barns full of grain. Five children have been carried off last Friday; some days before a sick man killed upon his bed, begged of the enemy to shoot him through his heart, to which the Indian answered, 'I will,' and did so. A girl that had hidden herself under a bedstead in the next room, heard all this; two more families were about that time destroyed."[14] The last reference is made probably to the family of our ancestor and that of Michael Specht.

The Massacre in the Newspapers.

In due time the news of the massacre reached the Philadelphia papers. The Pennsylvania Journal of October 6th had this: "From Reading we have advice that last Wednesday the enemy burnt the house of one Hochsteller and killed Hochstelle's wife and a young man, and himself and three children are missing." The other English paper in Philadelphia, the Gazette, about the same time had this: "We hear from Reading that on Thursday and Friday last some people were murdered in Bern Township by the Indians and others carried off."

The German paper in Philadelphia was The Journal, published by Christopher Sauer and issued twice a month. The issue of October 15th, 1757, under a general heading, Philadelphia, October 7th, has this: "In the same week the Indians came to Hoffstettler's place; the man called on his neighbors for help; meanwhile the Indians killed his wife and carried away his children, and burnt the house and barn. One son escaped."[15] The same paper has the following from Tulpehocken, under date of September 30th: "I am sorry that I can not send you better news, as the Indians have again murdered many inhabitants beyond us. It is reported that there have been between forty and fifty Indians not far from Nicholaus Langen's place. The poor people beyond us will all be obliged to move away. We stand in great fear. Yesterday we heard all day long of murder and death. No one however is ready to oppose the enemy."[16]

The Massacre in Official Reports.

A little later Col. Weiser directed the officers at several forts to report to him a list of those who had been killed or captured by the Indians since the beginning of the war. The reports of these officers are now in the manuscript department of the Pennsylvania Historical Society at Philadelphia. Extracts were printed in the Pennsylvania Magazine for July, 1908. Captain Jacob Orndt reported among others, "Highstealer's wife and one child killed and scalped; and three of his children taken captives in September, 1757, in Bern Township." This list was made at Fort Allen, and its author explains that he gives names and dates as nearly correct as possible. Our family is mentioned also in the report of Captain Jacob Morgan, who says that in the district south of the mountains he is not absolutely certain of names and dates, but gives the best information he can. Among those in Bern Township appears under date of September 20, 1757, Jacob Houghstetler and family, five killed and one wounded. The magazine account gives his name as Houghstetter, and also fails to show that this report was made by Captain Jacob Morgan.

It will be noted that the dates given in the newspapers do not agree absolutely with the date given by Captain Morgan. The account in the Journal speaks of the event as "last Wednesday," which doubtless refers to Wednesday, September 21. It is however possible that Captain Morgan's report may have had in mind the attack that began during the night following September 20, and the actual deaths occurred shortly after daybreak of the next day. However, as Captain Morgan made an effort to get the correct date, and as his is an official report, we may accept his date as correct.

V. THE CAPTIVITY

Quite likely the prisoners' hands were tied and they made to walk at a rapid pace, making for the Blue Mountains, which are in sight of the Hochstetler home and about two miles distant on a straight line. There is a tradition that while crossing the mountains they passed a clearing where a man named Miller[17], an ancestor of the numerous Miller family now residing in Holmes County and adjoining parts of Tuscarawas County, Ohio, was chopping. He was shot at and hit in the hand as he raised his ax; he fled and was not pursued. He may have belonged to the family of John Adam Miller, before mentioned as having been killed the previous April.

Indian Abuses of Prisoners.

Prisoners were always subject to many abuses on arriving at Indian villages; every old squaw or young Indian would hit them with switches and sometimes clubs and tomahawks. This was known to Hochstetler, who had saved some of the peaches from his home. He now with his sons approached the chief and those near him and presented them some peaches. This so pleased the chief that he immediately ordered the abuses stopped. It also saved them from going through what is called running the gauntlet, which was as follows: All Indians at the village or camp, both sexes, young and old, would stand in two rows facing each other, armed with switches, sticks and sometimes tomahawks or other implements and the unfortunate captive was made to pass through between the two columns, every one striking and some endeavoring to impede their progress by throwing sand or dust into their eyes, and woe unto one that was slow in running; such a one was beaten unmercifully. At the end of the row stood the guardhouse, where the prisoner for the time was free; but some indeed never reached it.

A Father's Parting Advice

Before the father and sons were separated he gave them this parting advice in his Swiss dialect: "If you are taken so far away and be kept so long that you forget your German language, do not forget your names and the Lord's Prayer." A timely and good advice. Being separated, they rarely if ever saw each other. During their captivity they were made to conform to Indian customs and were gradually dressed in that style. Indians grow no beards and would not tolerate it among their captives, hence they pulled out father Hochstetler's beard, also a part of the hair on the head, leaving a tuft or crown about four inches in diameter, which was braided and ornamented with feathers, etc. The pulling of the beard and hair on the head was done by taking a few hairs at a time and keeping on as if plucking a turkey until the job was completed to their notion. When the boys' beards became in evidence they were treated the same way. The winter following was a severe one. Much snow fell in the mountains and lay a long time. The soldiers of Fort Northkill were withdrawn, until the snow was gone, and the severe winter increased the sufferings of the captives.

While in captivity our ancestor was never permitted to know where he was, except once when in Erie, Pennsylvania, and once in Detroit, Michigan. They moved frequently from one village or place to another. In some places but few Indians were together while in other places large numbers gathered.

Experience of Joseph.

After the parting, Joseph was adopted into one of the families in full fellowship, or in other words, was made after their manner a full Indian. As he was a skilled hunter and backwoodsman, also noted for athletic sports, as Hertzler says in his Family History, page 152, he was respected, and after his adoption treated with the same kindness that any original Indian received. With solemn and impressive ceremony a white person was adopted into an Indian tribe. James Smith, who accompanied a number of men engaged by the Province of Pennsylvania to open up a road westward, was captured near Bedford in May, 1755, and has left us a full account of the ceremonies practiced in adopting him. He was taken into the Ohio territory to an Indian town called Tulhillas, on the White Woman, about 20 miles above the forks (or north of Coshcton). He says:

Method of Adoption.

"The day after my arrival at the aforesaid town, a number of Indians collected about me, and one of them began to pull the hair out of my head. He had some ashes on a piece of bark in which he frequently dipped his fingers, in order to take the firmer hold, and so he went on, as if he had been plucking a turkey, until he had all the hair clean off my head, excepting a small spot about three or four inches square on my crown; this they cut off with a pair of scissors, excepting three locks, which they dressed up in their own mode. Two of them they wrapped around with a narrow beaded garter made by themselves for that purpose, and the other they plaited at full length, and then stuck it full of silver brooches. After this they bored my nose and ears, and fixed me off with earrings and nose jewels; then they ordered me to strip off my clothes and put on a breech coat which I did; they then painted my head, face, and body, in various colors. They put a large belt of wampum on my neck, and silver bands on my hands and right arm; and so an old chief led me out in the street, and gave the alarm halloo, coo-wigh, several times repeated quickly; and on this, all that were in town came running and stood around the old chief, who held me by the hand in the midst. As at that time I knew nothing of their mode of adoption, and had seen them put to death all they had taken, and as I never could find that they saved a man alive at Braddock's defeat, I made no doubt but they were about putting me to death in some cruel manner.

Washing Out White Blood.

"The old chief holding me by the hand, made a long speech, very loud, and when he had done, he handed me to three young squaws, who led me by the hand down the bank, into the river, until the water was up to our middle. The squaws then made signs for me to plunge myself into the water, but I did not understand them; I thought that the result of the council was, that I should be drowned, and that these young ladies were to be the executioners. They all three laid violent hold of me, and I for some time opposed them with all my might, which occasioned loud laughter by the multitude on the bank. At length one of the squaws made out to speak a little English (for I believe they began to be afraid of me) and said, 'no hurt you.' On this I gave myself up to their ladyships, who were as good as their word; for though they plunged me under water, and washed and rubbed me severely, I could not say they hurt me much.

"These young women then led me up to the council house, where some of the tribe were ready with new clothes for me. They gave me a new ruffled shirt, which I put on, also a pair of leggins done off with ribbons and beads, likewise a pair of moccasins, and garters dressed with beads, porcupine quills, and red hair, also a tinsel laced cappo. They again painted my head and face with various colors, and tied a bunch of red featahers to one of the locks they had left on the crown of my head, which stood up five or six inches. They seated me on a bear's skin, and gave me a pipe, tomahawk, and polecat skin pouch, which had been skinned pocket fashion and contained tobacco, killegenico, or dry sumach leaves, which they mix with their tobacco, also punk, flint and steel. When I was thus seated, the Indians came in dressed and painted in their grandest manner. As they came in they took their seats, and for a considerable time there was profound silence. Every one was smoking, but not a word was spoken among them. At length one of the chiefs made a speech, which was delivered to me by an interpreter, and was as follows:

Speech of Adoption.

"'My son, you are now flesh of our flesh, and bone of our bone. By the ceremony which was performed this day, every drop of white blood was washed out of your veins; you are taken into the Caughnewago nation, and initiated into a warlike tribe; you are adopted into a great family, and now received with great seriousness and solemnity in the room of a great man. After what was passed this day you are now one of us by an old strong law and custom. My son, you have now nothing to fear; we are now under the same obligations to love, support, and defend you, that we are to love and defend one another. Therefore you are to consider yourself as one of our people.'

"At this time I did not believe this fine speech, especially that of the white blood being washed out of me; but since that time I have found that there was much sincerity in said speech; for, from that day, I never knew them to make any distinction between me and themselves in any respect whatever until I left them." It is quite likely that Joseph Hochstetler was, when adopted, initiated in a similar manner, being about the same age, and if he, or for that matter any of our family had any Indian blood in their veins, they must have got it in this way.

Is There Indian Blood in Our Family?

It seems, however, that from this event came a saying that the Hochstetlers had Indian blood. No, one can not claim this distinction, however much some of us may desire it. How were it possible? The ancestors were a typical Swiss family; Jacob and wife, born and raised in Switzerland, were married there, and had at least one son three years old on coming to America. After all the children were nearly grown the mother and two children were murdered by the Indians. Now, all the descendants of Jacob Hochstetler came through his three sons, John, Joseph and Christian, and daughter, Barbara Stutzman. John's wife, the mother of his ten children, was Catherine Hertzler, daughter of Jacob Hertzler. Joseph's wife, the mother of his children, was Anna Blank. The maiden name of Christian's wife was Rupp, all three Swiss names. If, therefore, any of our ancestor's family have Indian blood, it must have come in later, and at most only a small branch of the family could be related to the Indians.

Large Families.

It was also the boast of the earlier members of the family that they were free from hereditary diseases, such as consumption, hernia, epilepsy, or insanity, yet none of the earlier generations in America are known to have reached the age of eighty years. However, we can not but note the many large families with nearly all Biblical names. "Be fruitful, and multiply and replenish the earth," was the first blessing which the Creator in His wisdom bestowed upon mankind. True, there always have been, and always will be families with few or no children; such is God's will, but the custom of our age in America called "race suicide" can not be in accordance with the will of our Creator, and sooner or later evil consequences will follow. A family record, such as we frequently find in our genealogy, of from ten to fourteen children or more, is an honorable record and indicates a healthy condition both physically and morally; and when we study our family's past, let us search all things and hold fast to that which is good.

Experience of Christian.

Among the descendants of Christian there are several written accounts of his life, prepared at different times and by different persons and which vary more or less in details. These accounts make his age at captivity about ten years, which corresponds quite closely to the statement of his age made by his father in his petition to the Governor. Some of these accounts make his stay among the Indians seven years, while others make it as high as eleven years, which last is quite unlikely, as two of these accounts speak of his stay with the Indians "till the end of the war," and "peace was now restored," and "prisoners exchanged," which might refer either to the year 1762, but most appropriately to the year 1764. These accounts speak of his marriage shortly after his return, and his marriage is referred to as one of the elements that finally secured his consent to remain with the whites.

His Adoption.

According to these accounts, Christian was adopted by an aged Indian who treated him as a son. Another account states that this old Indian was given him to take care of. Christian was sent to hunt for game for the old Indian and himself. Sometimes he had to go long distances and remain away long, as game was scarce. These hunting trips gave him opportunity to escape, but he may not have known the way to his former home, and he would not forsake his old Indian friend, who would likely have starved if he had been deserted. After one long hunting trip he returned very much discouraged and very weak from want of food. The old Indian had been out for a short hunt and had found some wildcat kittens, which he had made into a soup or stew and Christian was glad for the feast. The old Indian believed the Great Spirit revealed to him the place where the game was to be found and he would often send Christian to the place. The Indian's success in thus locating game made a deep impression on the mind of the boy, who had become much attached to his Indian friend, who lived but a year or two after Christian was placed in his care.

An Indian Brother.

After the death of his Indian father, in accordance with Indian law and custom Christian chose an Indian brother, to whom he also became deeply attached, and his love for this brother and the kindness he had received from the hands of the Indians generally made him very unwilling to leave them, and he found it hard to become reconciled to the ways of the whites after his return to them.

His Return.

One account of his return states that he walked to his father's house, and as he stepped into the kitchen, he found the family at dinner. He bade the time of day and returned to the yard and seated himself on a stump. After his father had finished his meal, he went to the man in the yard whom he supposed was an Indian and began a conversation with him. In broken German which he could scarcely recall, he said, "My name is Christian Hochstetler." We can easily imagine the joy and surprise of the father, who nevertheless found it not easy to get his son into the house for dinner. For some time he would not decide to forsake his Indian friends and make his home with the whites. The childhood home that he had cherished in his memory during the years of his captivity was no longer to be found.

His Conversion

A short time after his return and marriage Christian was converted and joined the Tunker Church and soon became a preacher in that church. There was a Tunker congregation in Bern and Upper Tulpehocken Township, along the Northkill, several miles above the confluence of this stream with the Tulpehocken. A church was erected in 1748. In 1750 Elder George Klein came from New Jersey and settled among the members. Through his energy the congregation flourished for over twenty years, when the settlements farther west attracted the families. It is likely that the ministry of Elder George Klein resulted in the conversion of Christian. Practically all the descendants of Christian to this day are in churches that practice baptism by immersion, and nearly all of them are members of some church.[18]

The Captivity of Jacob.

We now resume the adventures of our ancestor Jacob. He never became reconciled to savage life but longed for his home, desolate as it was. He never gave up the idea of freeing himself in one way or other. He tried to conceal his desire and feelings, acting as if he were contented and reconciled, but Indians were hard to deceive and in spite of his pretenses, they never fully trusted him. The war had now lasted about six years since 1754 and during the last two years the English and Americans were mostly successful. Canada was taken from the French by the English but the Indians continued their raids. It was at a time when all the men or warriors had gone on a raid to the settlements that he concluded the time had come for him to escape, or die in the attempt.

18. Montgomery's History of Berks County, p. 47.

His Hunting Trips.

In the absence of the ablebodied men, Hochstetler was to provide for the families by procuring game. He was sent out daily to hunt, with orders to return at the close of the day if not sooner. He was given a gun, a few bullets, always counted, and a corresponding quantity of powder, with either a butcher knife or a tomahawk, but never both. On his return he was required to give an account of the ammunition used. If he did not bring home some game for every bullet used he had to explain why he missed. He desired more than a daily outfit for his escape, so he prepared a dry place in a standing hollow tree, where he daily stored away a little powder and a few bullets, which together with the outfit of that day he considered sufficient to venture the undertaking. Of course, he never saved more than one bullet in any one day and was obliged to give an evasive or misleading account.

Where Lay His Home?

But in what direction lay his home or the white settlements? and how far was he from the nearest settlements? These questions perplexed him. One day he noticed the old men explain something to the boys, using a stick with which they made rude marks in the ashes, which seemed to represent streams and mountains. He had acquired enough of the Indian language to understand they were making, in their way, a map of the country, showing the boys where their fathers had gone murdering. He dared not show that he understood what they meant, therefore passed to and fro apparently following his business, yet he managed to see them point to what seemed to represent a stream, which was called Susquehanna, another Allegheny, Monongahela, and mountains between these streams were named. It gave him a faint idea of his whereabouts and the course to pursue, as well as the distance to reach the settlements.

John Specht.

There was another captive in the village, a German named John Specht whom he desired to take with him, and the evening before the planned escape he took him into his confidence. In so doing he had to be guarded, as the Indians were suspicious when they, or for that matter, any prisoners conversed in German with none of their people present who understood it.

The Escape.

The morning followed the night, and Jacob Hochstetler was sent out as usual with his outfit; this day the butcher knife was given him. Specht starting under some pretense in another direction, the two met at an appointed place, the ammunition in the hollow tree was secured, and as much distance as possible put between them and the Indians they left behind who were old men, squaws and children, by whom there was not much danger of being pursued. The great danger to them lay in meeting hostile Indians who might return from their marauding, or might otherwise be scouring the woods.

A Surprise.

In the evening they concluded to encamp at a lonely place where there was an overhanging rock and where a fire could not be seen any distance. Imagine their surprise and embarrassment when on starting the fire a lone Indian came to them. This unexpected visit put a damper on their spirits. Both parties tried to conceal their embarrassment. From the appearance of the Indian it was believed others were not far off, so Hochstetler immediately planned another escape. He advised Specht to gather wood for the fire, going a little farther every time he went for a stick and pretending he was looking for a larger stick, go out of sight and escape, while he picked up his gun, telling the Indian he would try to secure some game for supper. They were to meet farther up a little brook that ran close by. In talking to Specht he used the German, which was not understood by the Indian. Hochstetler waited at the upper end of the little run until dark, but Specht did not appear, so he returned and quietly approached their proposed camping place from above the rock. In doing this, he was obliged to use the utmost care to avoid being discovered. On reaching the edge of the rock he carefully looked down. The fire had been suffered to go down and was not burning bright, no living being was seen, but by the glimmering fire he saw what he took to be fresh meat and blood.

Jacob Flees Alone.

Believing the Indian had killed Specht and was watching for him, he stealthily crept back and renewed his flight, never stopping for the night's rest. He went on in the direction of his home, as ascertained before he started, and stopped for rest only when completely exhausted. He often concealed himself in the daytime and traveled at night. He crossed streams and mountains until he reached what he thought was one of the head branches of the Susquehanna, which he followed. Though he never knew whether he was at any time pursued, he always used due precaution, to prevent being followed in case an attempt was made, wading through water at times to prevent being tracked by dogs, and in daytime generally avoided paths. As he followed the stream it grew larger and prospects seemed to brighten, so he decided to float down stream on a raft, which first had to be built.

The Raft.

Having selected a place where fire could not be seen from a distance he selected a dry fallen tree of proper thickness upon which he built some five or six "nigger fires."[19] These were stirred and kept burning all night and by morning the trees were burnt through in as many places. The logs were dragged to the water, tied together with hickory withes, or wild grapevines, and on this frail raft the journey was continued. After some distance the course of the stream turned to the right and Jacob Hochstetler now believed he was on some other stream than the Susquehanna, probably the Ohio, which would take him away from home. He must have passed the present location of Pittston, Pa., about fifty miles to the north and a little to the east of his home. The river from this point follows a general southwestern direction till it reaches Duncannon, in Perry County, a few miles above Harrisburg, where it turns to the southeast. Fatigued and nearly starved, he tied his raft, and went on shore, about giving up in despair.

His Dream.

There is a tradition that he found a dead opossum full of maggots. He was so hungry that it tasted good and he ate till his hunger was appeased and then fell asleep, when his murdered wife appeared to him in a dream telling him to go on, that he was on the right way. When he awoke he took to his raft, determined never to leave it until he reached the white settlements. Thus he reached Fort Harris on the site of the present city of Harrisburg. He was too weak to stand, made efforts to be noticed, but failed to be observed until past the place. A little below the fort there was a place where the river was forded when low; here a man was watering a horse, who observed a strange object floating down stream; he went and reported. The commander at the fort with his spyglass discovered that there was a white man on a small raft and signalled to him, but all Jacob was able to do was to hold up his arm. He was accordingly rescued with a skiff. A woman, probably Mrs. Harris, prepared his first meals for him. He soon regained his strength and from here had no trouble in reaching his home. Before arriving at Fort Harris he must have passed two other forts, Fort Hunter about five miles above and Fort Augusta at the forks of the Susquehanna. From the latter the stream could not well be seen and Fort Hunter he may have passed in the nighttime. Take it all in all, his advenntures were hazardous, the escape marvelous, and his whole life replete with incidents worthy of being preserved to posterity.

The Starting Place.

The place from whence our ancestor started when making his escape, and how long he was on the way on his perilous journey is not known. It seems he must have been somewhere in northeastern Ohio, or in adjoining northwestern Pennsylvania, or possibly in the southwestern part of the state of New York, all that part being then inhabited by the Indians, and he probably was on the way from three to four weeks, as he could seldom travel fast and often could not go a direct course. The only game he secured during his flight was a wild duck, being afraid to shoot lest he be found out. Be-

To save chopping, a number of fires were built on the fallen tree at proper distances apart; the branches of the top and other small sticks were used, being laid crosswise on the log. In this way the thickest logs were burnt through. The process sometimes required several days. Such fires were called "Nigger fires," and the process, "nigger through."

sides the wild duck, he subsisted on some crawfish, nuts, buds and such edibles as could be obtained in the woods at that time of the year, which according to the manner in which the fire was to be built the first evening, must have been perhaps in September or October, after he was with the Indians about three years, about the time the French surrendered. It may also have been in the early Spring, after the snows were gone, as the Indians often selected this season for their raids.

John Specht.

The exact fate of John Specht was never known. He never reached the settlements, and when the lone Indian later met the boys, Joseph and Christian, he made his boast that he had killed both their father and Specht, but his story was doubted by the boys.

Fort Harris.

Modern historians have been inclined to doubt that there ever was a fort built at that place. The facts are: John Harris built a house there in 1705 and established a trading post with the Indians and later obtained a permit from the government to operate a ferry. At one time he refused to give any more liquor to a party of Indians who came to trade with him and had become drunk. This so enraged them that they tied him to a tree near his log house and were about burning him to death when another party of Indians from across the river happened to come in time to rescue him. When he died in 1748 he was buried at the foot of this tree at his own request. His son John was born in this house in 1726. When the Indians began murdering settlers on the Susquehanna on October 29th, 1755, at the outbreak of the war, portholes were cut in his house which was turned into a fort. Soldiers were stationed there. The house was large, with extensive sheds attached, and was frequently used for the storage of army supplies. Fortunately it was never attacked by the enemy. From 1758-60 the English gained ground, and having taken the forts, including Pitt on the Ohio and nearly all Canada, the French ceased fighting; but a treaty was not signed until 1765.

VI. THE RELEASE OF JOSEPH AND CHRISTIAN

After his return from captivity our ancestor learned of the events that had occurred during his absence. The Indians had continued their depredations during the summer of 1758. As early as March 15th of that year his old neighbors had sent a petition to Gov. Dewey asking protection against the Indians, who might make their attacks at any time, now that the snows were melting, and the weather growing fair. They stated in their petition that the blockhouse at Northkill was destroyed and no garrison kept there. During this summer, a man named Lebenguth, of Tulpehocken Township, and his wife were killed and scalped. Near the Northkill Nicholas Geiger's wife and two of his children were killed and scalped, also the wife of Michael Ditzelar. Several victories during the summer of 1758 practically brought the war to a close.

Councils at Easton.

On the request of the Indians a council was held with them at Easton, Pennsylvania, from October 8 to 26, 1758. This council was attended by Governor Dewey and others associated with him. A treaty of peace was agreed upon, and one of its conditions was that the Indians were to return all their prisoners and restore them to their friends, through Gen. Johnson who was to receive them. This treaty aroused the hopes of those who had lost relatives and friends and we can easily believe that the sorrowing family and friends of our ancestor would rejoice at the news. Very few captives however were returned.

Speech of Governor Hamilton.

After nearly three years another council was held, August 3-12, 1761, at Easton, Pennsylvania, attended by Governor Hamilton. In his address to the Indians he reminded them of their former agreement about the captives and said, "Brethren, I am pleased to hear you sent to Gen. Johnson, our flesh and blood who were prisoners among the Cayugas. We esteem it as the strongest proof of your friendship which you can possibly give us. You all agreed at the treaty held here three years ago, that you would search all the towns and places in the Indian countries for them, and deliver them up to us, without leaving one behind, and if they had gone down your throats, you could heave them up again. I am sorry that but very few have yet been brought back, though I know there are a great many scattered up and down among the Indians. We can not help thinking that you speak only from the lips and not from your hearts, whatever professions of regard you make for us, till this promise is performed, and we see our fathers, mothers, and children, who have been carried into captivity, restored to us. This promise was the condition on which the peace belt was exchanged between us." These vigorous words from the Governor secured from the Indians another solemn promise that they would make every possible effort to restore all the captives that could be found among them. They agreed to bring them all to another council which was to be held the next summer at Lancaster.

Council at Lancaster.

This solemn assurance of the Indians aroused a widespread interest and expectation among those who had lost relatives and friends. The council was to meet at Lancaster, and begin its session the twelfth day of August, 1762. Previous to this date glowing reports came from the Indian country of the immense number of captives that were being brought and that would be turned over to their friends. We can easily imagine the eager interest with which our ancestor hastened to Lancaster, with the expectation of securing his long-lost sons.

A Disappointnment.

But the council proved a deep disappointment. Instead of the hundreds of captives that had been promised and expected there were about two dozen. But the Indians were very plausible in their excuses and apologies. They declared that the captives were unwilling to return as they had become strongly attached to their Indian friends. The chiefs also claimed they found it hard to induce their people to drive from them the captives who were unwilling to return to the whites.

The council opened August 12th. Our ancestor soon satisfied himself that his sons were not among the small number of restored captives, and he may have had tidings of them from Indians who were present. He was deeply disappointed. but would not give up to despair. But what could he do among the hundreds who were present looking for their captive friends? He was not accustomed to the transaction of business in a large public gathering such as this was. It is doubtful whether he could speak the English language which was used by the men in charge of the council. But he was unwilling to leave the council till he had made at least some effort to secure the return of his sons. We can easily believe that he spent an anxious, troubled night but in the morning he had decided what to do.

Jacob's Petition.

By the assistance of some friend he prepared a petition which he presented to the Governor, who was very busy in the council, and who could ill spare the time for the needs of a humble individual like our ancestor. But the Governor received the petition, which has been preserved and is in print in the Pennsylvania Archives, Vol. 4, p. 99, and is as follows:

Petition of Jacob Hockstetter to Governor Hamilton, 1762.

To the Honorable James Hamilton, Esq., Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania,

The Humble Petition of Jacob Hockstetler of Berks County, Humbly Sheweth:

That about five Years ago your Petitioner with 2 Children were taken Prisoners, & his wife & 2 other Children were killed by the Indians, that one of the said Children who is still Prisoner is named Joseph, is about 18 Years old, and Christian is about 16 Years & a half old. That his House & Improvements were totally ruined & destroyed. That your Petitioner understands that neither of his Children are brought down, but the Embassadour of King Kastateeloca, who has one of his Children is now here.

That your Petitioner most humbly prays your Honour to interpose in this Matter, that his Children may be restored to him, or that he may be put into such a Method as may be effectual for that Purpose.

And your Petitioner will ever pray, &c.

Aug. 13, 1762. his

Where was the Petition Written?

This petition does not give the name of the place at which it was written, but it was evidently written at Lancaster, as seen in the words "now here," referring to the place where the Indian Embassador then was, at Lancaster with the Governor holding the council. The words "brought down" would be appropriate at Lancaster, as used by one living in Berks County near the mountains, or it might refer to the higher regions to the north and west where the Indians lived.

It is not known where the original paper of this petition is. Recent inquiry was made in the Archives department of the State Library at Harrisburg for it. as also for the original copy of the Northkill Journal, but the custodian was unable to locate either. As the document is printed, the name of our ancestor is spelled three different ways, or a different way each time it was written.

Results of Petition.

The petition may have been of some help. The Governor would doubtless bring the matter to the attention of the Indian Embassador, who could not well do anything else than agree to do his best for the release of the captives named and described in the petition. At any rate, one of the sons, according to the best traditions in the family, was restored soon after, to his family, after a captivity of about five years. The writer has reason for believing that this was Christian[20], though the written accounts in the family of Christian make the shortest time of his captivity seven years, and the account among the descendants of Joseph as appears in the note to fam. 7174, fixes his captivity at six years.

The Ages of the Sons.

The age of the boys as given in the petition was 18 and 16½ years respectively, the petition dated August 13th, 1762. The writer has reason to believe that the father had in mind their age at time of capture, that being the age given by my grandfather, who saw them both in later years, as well as their brother John who saw them being taken away. Besides, it is not likely that Joseph and Christian if they were only 13 and 11½ years old would pick up their guns to defend the family and beg their father to allow them to shoot, their parents belonging to the defenceless people. The writer has yet several palpable reasons why he thinks the father in giving their age had in mind the time of capture, but the reader can have his choice.

Pontiac's War.

The work of restoring the prisoners was retarded by a second Indian uprising in 1763 under the celebrated Indian chief Pontiac. The Indians were not satisfied when the French surrendered their lands to the English. Pontiac, a powerful and warlike chief, rekindled the fires of war, and by stratagem and treachery recaptured nine of the twelve forts from the English but the Delawares failed to take the three forts assigned to them.

Col. Bouquet Defeats the Indians.

Col. Henry Bouquet, a brave and sagacious officer, was sent witih an army into the Indian territory to chastise them. In August, 1763, he defeated them with great slaughter at Bushy Run, Pa., and soon after occupied Pittsburgh. The following year he marched an army into the Ohio territory, to the Tuscarawas and Muskingum, and built a stockade near the present Bolivar in Tuscarawas County, Ohio. On October 17th, 1764, Colonel Bouquet met a number of Indian chiefs farther south, probably in the edge of the Dover Plains, and at this spot was consummated an agreement which resulted in the restoration of all the white prisoners held by the Delawares and other tribes. From the Plains, near the present Strasburg, he continued his march to the forks of the Muskingum, the present Coshocton, where the treaty was ratified by the several tribes, and the last prisoners surrendered.

The Indians had become discouraged by their decisive defeat the previous year. They had been forsaken by their previous allies, the French, and had trouble in agreeing among themselves. So they had approached Col. Bouquet for a council and were very anxious for peace on any terms.

Bouquet's Council with the Indians.

At the council of October 17th, 1764, there were present, representing the Delaware Indians, Custaloga, chief of the Wolf tribe, the chief named in our ancestor's petition; and Beaver, chief of the Turkey tribe, with twenty warriors. These two chiefs at the close of their speech delivered eighteen prisoners and eighty-three small sticks, representing the number of prisoners in their possession and which they agreed to deliver as soon as possible.

Return of Captives.

On November 9th, the Delaware chiefs Beaver and Custaloga had brought in all but twelve of their prisoners, but Col. Bouquet refused to shake hands with them or have the least talk with them while a single captive remained among them. This firmness impressed these chiefs that they must use sterner measures among their people to secure the return of the captives, who were as unwilling often to be restored as the Indians were to give them up. On November 24th, Custaloga and the Senecas delivered the last three of their prisoners. December 1st of this year Col. Bouquet wrote to the Governor of Pennsylvania that he had sent under care of Lieutenant Col. Clayton all the captives belonging to Pennsylvania and had delivered several others to their parents and relatives.[21] There were, however, a few prisoners that could not be brought to the authorities because they were at a distance, and on account of the severity of the winter which had set in.

The remaining captives were brought to the authorities the following spring, so that Sir William Johnson signed with the Delaware Indians, May 8th, 1765, a treaty of peace, after they had delivered to Col. Bouquet all the prisoners in their possession.[22]

Restoration of Joseph.

It was by reason of Col. Bouquet's success that Joseph Hochstetler was restored to his folks. Some of the captives accompanied the retiring army to Pittsburgh, arriving just before the close of the year 1764, while others, who were too far from the Tuscarawas Valley, could not be brought in and returned until the following spring. It is not known whether Joseph returned late in the fall of 1764 or the following spring.

Place of Restoration.

From a letter written by John Hertzler, author of the Hertzler Genealogy, we learn of the kindly treatment of Joseph by the Indians, and "when they brought him down the Susquehanna River, to the Fort on the east side of the river, near where Sunbury is now, in Northumberland County (Fort Augusta), by treaty, they tried to have him go back with them and live with them as brothers. He often visited them and enjoyed himself hunting, fishing, running and jumping." John Hertzler's mother, Barbara Zug, was a niece of the wife of Joseph, the captive.

Over two hundred captives were brought to Col. Bouquet in the fall, while about a hundred could not be brought in before spring. The Ottoways and other northern tribes had killed nearly all their white prisoners. Many of the captives had been taken when young, and did not remember their names or place of their former homes. Such were taken to Carlisle, Pennsylvania, and notice given that those who had lost relatives might have a chance to find them. Many touching scenes occurred here, but in this work they can not be given any further attention. Of the captives surrendered under Bouquet, the names of about two-thirds are given in the Pennsylvania Archives, but Joseph's name is not found among them.

Indian Treatment of Captives.

There has been much misapprehension of the treatment of their captives by the Indians, and many have thought it strange that the captives could be satisfied with their Indian associations. A writer in the Pennsylvania Gazette of July 25, 1765, speaking of the kindness of the Indians toward their prisoners, says: "Cruel and unmerciful as they are, by habit and long example in war, yet whenever they come to give way to the native dictates of humanity, they exercise virtues which Christians need not blush to imitate. When they once determine to give life, they give everything with it, which in their apprehension, belongs with it.

"Among those who had lived long with the Indians it is not expected that any marks of joy would appear on being restored to their parents or relatives. Having been accustomed to look upon the Indians as the only connections they had, and having been tenderly treated by them and speaking their language, it is no wonder they considered their new fate in the light of a captivity and parted from the savages in tears."

Speech of a Shawnee Chief.

The same kindly ideas are brought out in the speech of a Shawnee chief in the council with Col. Bouquet, on surrendering his captives. "Fathers, we have brought your flesh and blood to you: they have all been united to us by adoption; and though we now deliver them, we will always look upon them as our relations, whenever the Great Spirit is pleased that we visit them. We have taken as much care of them as if they were our own flesh and blood. They are now become unacquainted with your customs and manners: and therefore we request you will use them tenderly and kindly, which will induce them to live contentedly with you."

It is related of Joseph that, although the Indians had murdered his mother, brother and sister, and committed many other atrocities, he had become so attached to them and their customs and manner of living that he hesitated long before he decided to leave them and readopt civilization and live with the whites. The mutual attachment between him and his Indian brethren was such that it was kept after his return.

In due time he married, as will be seen elsewhere in this work, and settled down, but the habits he acquired during his long captivity never fully left him.

Other Land Transfers.

March 13, 1773, our ancestor deeded to Joseph Zollenberger the eighty acres of land which was secured by warrant of May 8th, 1747, and on which his son John resided at the time of the massacre. The consideration was 165 pounds. In this deed, as in all the others that we have, our ancestor signed his name with an X. This deed was witnessed by John Hochstedler and Jacob Hertzler, his father-in-law. At this time John Hochstetler, the oldest son of our ancestors, was residing on the old farm of his father. He probably moved to that farm soon after the close of the war, if not before, and replaced the buildings, including the still house, which had been destroyed by the Indians.[23] November 18th, 1773, Jacob deeded the old farm of 150 acres to his son John for 460 pounds. This included the 100 acres secured by warrant dated October 25, 1739, and the 50 acres secured by the warrant of January 30, 1755. These deeds were witnessed by Johannes Buechmueller and Peter Spycker. In both these deeds the residence of our ancestor is given as Heidelberg Township.

The Hertzler Genealogy notes that Jacob Hertzler divided his property among his children August 30, 1773, but no mention is made of any portion given his daughter Catherine, wife of John Hochstetler, but it is quite likely that Catherine received a portion, and this money may have aided John in the purchase of his father's farm.

Berks County Tax Lists.

A recent examination has been made of the early tax lists of Bern and Heidelberg Townships. These lists are carefully kept in the vaults of the Berks County Historical Society at Reading. The first list for Bern Township is for the year 1753, and the tax of our ancestor for that year was two pounds and two shillings. His name occurs also in 1754 and 1755. The lists for 1756 and 1757 are missing. One list of 1758 is preserved, but our family name does not appear upon it. For the years 1759, 1760 and 1761, the name of his son John takes the place of his father, who was among the Indians, and it was not known whether he was living or dead. In the year 1762 both names Jacob and John appear, showing that Jacob had returned at the time that this list was made. John's name is omitted till 1765, when it appears with his father, and is found on every list till 1783, and no lists are preserved of 1784 and 1785. Jacob appears in the Bern lists for the last time in 1771. He may have made an agreement to sell his Northkill land to his son John at that time, though the transfer was not made till 1773. The name of the son, Christian, appears on the Bern lists of 1767 and 1768.

Heidelberg Township.

The name of our ancestor appears on the Heidelberg Township lists from 1765 to 1774, the last year of its appearance. The name of Joseph appears in 1768 and continues till 1806, which is its last appearance. His son Henry appears in 1802 and 1803 and his son Peter in 1802. The family name in these lists is spelled in many different ways. On practically all the lists the final syllable is "ler," and in about a dozen lists the first syllable ends in "f" or "ff."

Our Ancestors During the American Revolution.

Being by principle noncombatants and having not defended themselves against the Indians when an excellent opportunity offered, it could not be expected that they would take part in the war. Besides, it is well known that many of the Amish, having enjoyed under the British government perfect religious freedom, which was denied them in Europe, naturally felt grateful to the English government, and did not view with favor the policy of the Americans, hence many of them actually sympathized with the British, for which, when duly considered, certainly no blame attaches to them.

This land was later patented: May 5, 1814, 22 acres and 111 Perches to Henry Fehr: February 7, 1893, 81 acres. 102 perches to Peter Mohn, Elmira Snyder, Levi Metz, William B. Wagner and George B. Wagner. It appears that nearly 64 acres of this land has not yet been patented. This land may possibly have been taken because John considered it unsafe to live so convenient to the Indian pass in the mountains. The patent to Henry Fehr describes the land as in Bern Township. The patent to Peter Mohn and others describes the land as in Upper Bern Township, Berks County.

The Quakers, on the other hand, though they were also noncombatants, and had suffered in England, now mostly sympathized with the Americans. Different conditions may honestly cause different sentiments, without casting a reflection on either side. So during the great Civil War, though most of our family resided in the North, and of such as did not belong to a noncombatant church, many entered the Union army, while a few, residing in the south, fought in the Confederate army. Such things sometimes are regulated not of choice, but rather of fate. But the Amish and other noncombatants were made to suffer during the Revolution, refusing to bear arms. Heavy fines were assessed against them, their property seized, and often a hatred existed between them and those who took up arms. It is therefore not surprising to find on the tax list of Bern Township for 1779 that the name of John Hochstetler is marked "tory," with nine others, in a list of 272 names, while his brother Joseph is the only one marked "tory" in Heidelberg for the same year in a list of 316 names. They were made to pay heavy fines, but later their property was restored in case their refusal to perform military duty was due to church rules.

Imprisonment.

In many instances these noncombatant people were placed in prison because they refused to perform military service. From Mast's Genealogy, page 691, we take the following: "So many of these people were thrown into prison at Reading that the women were compelled to work in the fields to support their families. According to tradition, those who were imprisoned for refusing military service were sentenced to be shot and a day set for their execution. A meeting was held in Reading prison to administer the Lord's Supper to the condemned brethren. But the execution was never carried into effect. Through the leading of a kind Providence, friends interfered, particularly Henry Hertzell, pastor of the German Reformed church, who appealed to the authorities in behalf of those who fled from Europe to escape military service and who could not now be expected to do what their conscience forbade them to do in Europe. The appeal was heard and the peace-loving prisoners were set free. Among those released from prison were John Hertzler, Jacob and Stephen Kauffman; the writer having spoken recently with a grandson of the latter, Jacob Kauffman, of Davidsville, Pa., about this historical incident contained on page 139 in the 'Mennonite Church History,' compiled by Hertzler and Kauffman. Others that were released at this time were John and Christian Zug and Jacob Mast, who is supposed to have been our progenitor and who was for same years afterward known as Bishop Jacob Mast."

Enrollment in Military Company.

Joseph Hochstedler was also enrolled in Cap. Philip Filbert's militia company of Berks County for the years 1780-1781-1782. This is no proof, however, that he mustered or actually did perform military service. In 1780, John is taxed twenty-five pounds and no property named. This was undoubtedly a fine, as the next year he is taxed again on 200 acres of land, including the distillery, three horses and three cattle, the amount of tax being five pounds and eleven pence. After the war fines assessed were restored in many cases and the record shows that fifty-two pounds were restored to Joseph.

Oct. 17, 1767, of D J H 3062, note, who, June 8, 1785, patented land surveyed for Jacob Stutzman, above, by Christian Hochstetler, later known as the Samuel Folk farm, 2½ miles S. E. of Salisbury, Pa., likely the David, taxed in 1796, in Milford Tp., Somerset Co., and Apr. 6, 1798, with wife Susanna, both of Somerset Tp., gave power of Attorney to John Wells to sell land in Somerset Tp., same Co. (2) Samuel Stutzman, Somerset Tp., Mar. 26, 1798, agreed to sell land to Abraham Whipkey, his portion of the land bought by Jacob and Samuel Stutzman.
